Hotels Not In Area of Woods Fire About 800 Acres Reported Burned

While State Conservation Department planes dropped water bombs with thousands of gallons of water in each, hundreds of volunteer firemen from dozens of communities in Ulster and Orange Counties today continued to battle a fierce forest fire in the Shawangunk Mountains.

Kenneth B. Phillips, president of Lake Minnewaska House Inc., told The Freeman early this afternoon that the hotels in the area are not in danger. He said the fire was burning in an area 6 1/2 to 7 miles southwest of Lake Minnewaska Mt. House, near Napanoch Point.

Hope Air Attack Is A Mistake

No Ground Fights In Tense Sector

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Turkey and the Greek Cypriot government agreed to a U.N. Security Council call for a cease-fire on this embattled island today. A brief Turkish air attack on a northwest village before Turkey's announcement sent a new scare through Cyprus.

Greece said it hoped the strafing attack on a square in Polis was due to a mix-up in Turkish military orders.

Trophy Winners Announced Many Thousands View Parade of County Vols

More than 3,000 persons lined the sidewalks in the Village of Rosendale Saturday afternoon, to review the firemen's parade which climaxed the 29th annual three-day parley of the Ulster County Firemen's Association, the largest in its history.

Awards were made Saturday night at Sportmen's Park Field after judging of the various groups. Participating in the five division parade, which officials consider was the largest ever held in the county by the firemen, were 47 fire companies and auxiliaries and 21 musical units.

Highland Next Year

The 1965 convention will be held at Highland, the home of the new association president, Domenick Costantino, who succeeds Herbert F. Faurate of Bloomington.

The Vagabonds Fife and Drum Corps of Poughkeepsie, sponsored by Rapid Hose Co., Kingston, won the award for the best drum corps in line. Rhinebeck Fire Department received the award for the best appearing visiting company in the parade.

Utica Lawyer Is New Chairman of Welfare Board

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Hugh R. Jones, a Utica lawyer, is the new chairman of the State Board of Social Welfare.

He was appointed Sunday by Gov. Rockefeller to the post in which he had served on a temporary basis since the retirement of Myles B. Amend of New York City in May, 1963.

The governor also reappointed Jones and Dr. Arthur G. Hopkins of Brooklyn for new terms and filled seven vacancies on the important, 15-member board.

Best fire unit in regulation Milton, second; Best unit with dress uniforms (over 15 men), New Paltz, first; Highland, second; Best unit with dress uniforms (under 15 men), Hurley.

High Falls Ladies Auxiliary won the first award in that category, and second award went to Wallkill Ladies Auxiliary. The best band in line award went to Florida Fire Department, and The Melo-Dears of Appalachin, won the award for the best junior musical unit.

The board, a policy-making body, is responsible for the operations of the State Social Welfare Department, which has a budget of about $700 million and directs services affecting about 4 million New Yorkers. The board also appoints the social welfare commissioner, subject to the governor's approval.

Apparatus Judged

In the apparatus judging, Wallkill Engine Co. took first award with a 1947 Mack apparatus, and Port Ewen Fire Company's entry, a 1952 Ward-LaFrance ladder truck, won second place. Tillson Fire Co. received mention with its 1961 International-American pumper.

Observers contended that the 1964 annual convention of the UCVFA was the best ever conducted by the association, and the parade Saturday was the largest.

The three-day convention opened last Thursday night with a banquet, continued Friday with the annual business sessions and election of officers, and concluded Saturday with the parade which took one-and-a-half hours to pass a given point.

Barry Purcell of Bloomington, was parade chairman, Faurate and Charles Peterson, of Bloomington, were co-chairmen of the parade.

Combined Posts

Amend retired after the 1963 Legislature enacted a law putting the board chairmanship on a full-time, salaried basis. Rockefeller asked the Legislature to combine the posts of chairman and welfare commissioner and to give him authority to appoint the chairman-commissioner, but the Legislature balked.

In its regular session last winter, the 1964 Legislature enacted a new measure restoring the chairmanship to part-time status and giving the governor a veto power over appointments by the board to the post of welfare commissioner.

The governor played no part in the selection, in September 1962, of the current commissioner. (Continued on Page 11, Col. 7)

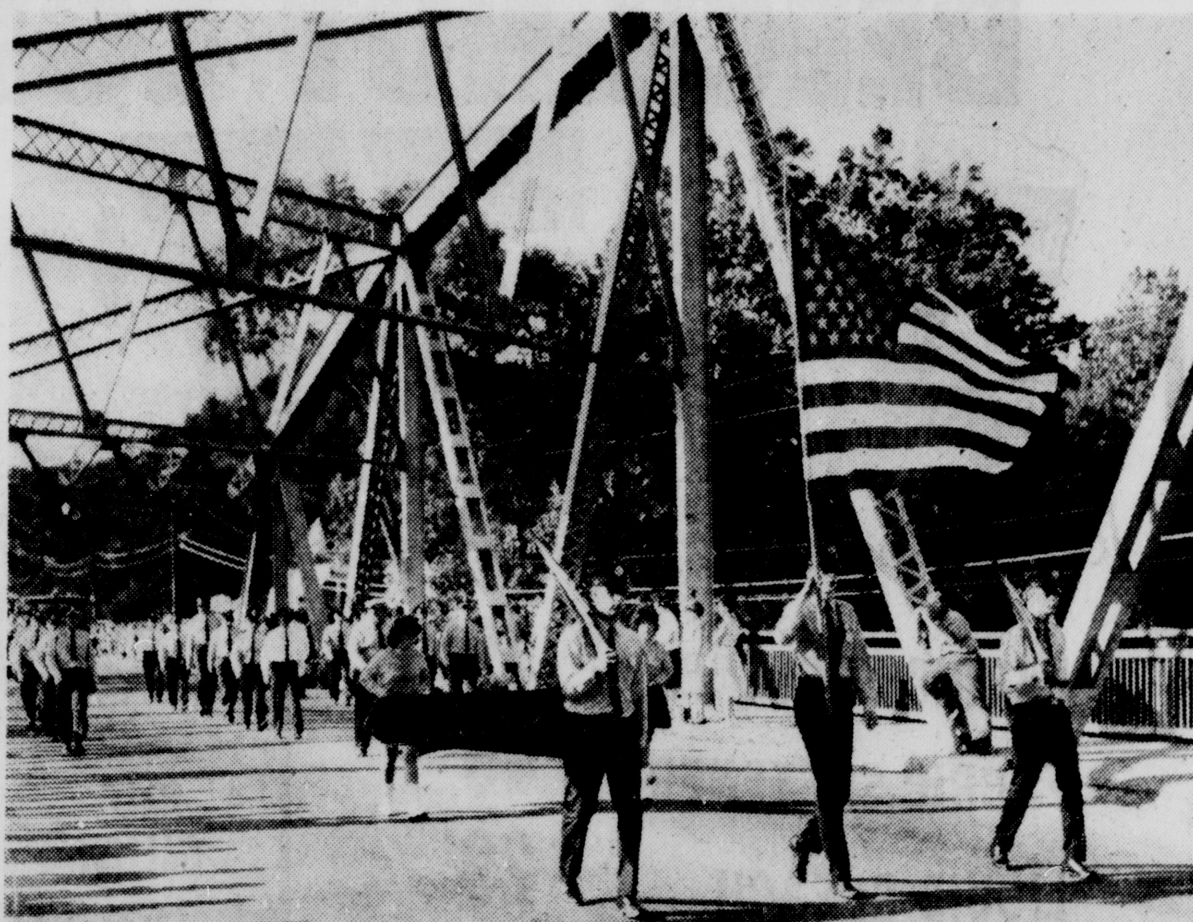

Readings Below Normal Forecast For Rest of Week

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 a.m. Tuesday to 7 a.m. Sunday:

Eastern New York—Warming at beginning. A shower period Wednesday, possibly beginning late Tuesday night. Turning cooler latter part of the week. Temperatures likely averaging several degrees below normal. Rainfall amounts variable and generally one third and two thirds of an inch.

Western New York—Temperatures will average 3-6 degrees below normal. Warmer Tuesday. Cool the rest of the week. Rainfall will average 1/2 to 1 inch, occurring as scattered thundershowers Tuesday night and a general rain about Thursday.

Temperature normals — Daytime highs 77-83; nighttime lows 58-63.

HOSTS IN LINE OF MARCH — The marching unit of one of the host companies, Bloomington Fire Company, set a lively pace in the first division of the annual Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association convention parade Saturday afternoon at Rosendale. Other Town of Rosendale fire companies serving as host to the county vols included Binnewater, Cottickill, Rosendale and High Falls. Officials announced it was the largest parade in association history and the most units, 47, participated in convention activities. The crowd was estimated at well over 3,000 along the line of march. The parade climaxed the 29th annual three-day parley which opened Thursday. (Freeman photo).

Hoover Still In Top Form At 90 Years

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover, marking his 90th birthday today, says "freedom of choice" is what made America great.

"Freedom is the open window through which pours the sunlight of the human spirit and of human dignity," he said. "With the preservation of these moral and spiritual qualities and with God's grace will come further greatness for our country."

The 31st president of the United States, in his home at the Waldorf Towers, entertains four old friends at lunch today and presides at a family dinner.

Congratulations — via cables, telegrams, letters — by the thousands have been received by Hoover.

Name Special Day

President Johnson and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, along with governors of 15 other states, issued proclamations designating today as Herbert Hoover Day.

Hoover, who has survived a series of illnesses starting with a gall bladder attack in 1948, did not see newsmen Sunday, but issued a statement. His physician, Dr. Michael Lepore, said Hoover's general health is "good for a man of 90."

Lepore said Hoover is mentally alert and only his "rugged constitution" has brought him through medical emergencies, including an operation for cancer.

Gay Decorations

The Hoover apartment was gaily decorated. There was a huge birthday cake shaped in the form of the Hoover Promenade at the World's Fair.

And the former president, always a baseball fan, watched the opening of the doubleheader at Yankee Stadium on television Sunday and saw the ceremony in his honor.

In his statement, Hoover said, "among us there is greater freedom for the individual man and woman than in any other nation."

Hoover voiced "deep regret" at the denial of "an equal chance for our Negro population."

He added, however: "Our 19 million American Negroes probably own more automobiles than all the 220 million Russians and the 200 million African Negroes put together."

1st Encyclical in 13-Month Reign Pope Plans More Active Role in World Disputes

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI offered in the first encyclical of his reign today to go beyond "a watchful and understanding interest" and help seek honorable solutions of disputes threatening world peace.

Without specifying exactly what his intervention might take, the Roman Catholic pontiff wrote:

"Regarding the great and universal question of world peace, we say at once that we shall feel it specially incumbent upon us not merely to devote a watchful and understanding interest, but also to entertain a more assiduous and efficacious concern."

Specifies Limits

"This will be, of course, within the limits of our ministry and so utterly divorced from purely temporal interests and strictly political forms, but it will be eager to make its contribution in educating mankind to sentiments and ways of acting contrary to violent and deadly conflict, and in fostering rational and civilized agreements for peaceful relations between nations."

"We shall also be solicitous to help by proclaiming higher human principles that should serve to temper the passions and selfishness from which armed conflicts spring, and promote the harmonious relations and fruitful collaboration of all peoples, and we shall be ready to intervene, where an opportunity presents itself, in order to assist the contending parties to find honorable and fraternal solutions for their disputes."

The Pope also proposed a joint discussion with non-Christian religions, aimed at defending common ideals.

The 14,000-word encyclical — a letter to Roman Catholic bishops around the world — put down "practical guidelines" for Paul's 13-month-old pontificate.

It was a broad statement of the role of the Roman Catholic Church in the modern world. Its title — Ecclesiam Suam, Its Church — was derived from the first two words of its official Latin text. The reference is to Christ.

Pope Paul condemned communism and atheism, saying the substitution of religion with a godless scientific conception "is the most serious problem of our time." But he expressed the hope that ideological systems denying God "may one day be able to enter into a more positive dialogue with the Church than the present one which we now of necessity deplore and lament."

Renews Pledges

He renewed pledges to work for Christian unity and spoke of finding "greater courage to undertake the necessary reforms" started in the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

But he reaffirmed the Roman Catholic concept of papal primacy and said he was distressed that many non-Catholic Christians considered the papacy a "stumbling block" to unity. He asserted he could not "compromise with the integrity" of the Catholic faith in seeking unity.

Council reforms, he added, "cannot concern either the essential conception of the church or its basic structure."

Four Divisions

The encyclical was divided into four parts: A prologue on the paths open to the Church, a section on Church awareness of itself, another on the renewal under way in the Church, and the last on the dialogue between the Church and the world.

In the prologue, the Pope of-

Powell Says Foes Of Mayor Wagner To Pick Nominee

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-Harlem, predicted today that forces opposed to Mayor Robert F. Wagner would pick the next Democratic senatorial candidate from New York State.

He referred to Brooklyn Democratic leader Stanley Steingut, Rep. Charles A. Buckley of the Bronx, and Peter Crotty of Erie County, all old foes of Wagner and strong supporters of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy for the Senate nomination.

Hotels Not In Area of Woods Fire

About 800 Acres Reported Burned

While State Conservation Department planes dropped water bombs with thousands of gallons of water in each, hundreds of volunteer firemen from dozens of communities in Ulster and Orange Counties today continued to battle a fierce forest fire in the Shawangunk Mountains.

Kenneth B. Phillips, president of Lake Minnewaska House Inc., told The Freeman early this afternoon that the hotels in the area are not in danger. He said the fire was burning in an area 6½ to 7 miles southwest of Lake Minnewaska Mt. House, near Napanoch Point.

Radio reports from upstate, according to Phillips that Camp Laurel at Awosting, was in danger and campers were evacuating, were definitely untrue. He said fire before noon was in an area one to one-and-a-half miles from the camp and burning in the opposite direction.

About Under Control

Phillips said 50 firemen were guarding the fire in the camp area and they appeared to have it contained at noon.

Early today, fire ignited a Boy Scout frame building in The Trapps on Lake Minnewaska property, Phillips said, and employees at the hotel fought the flames and prevented them from spreading. The building was destroyed. A crew of employees remained at the scene until daylight to prevent a rekindle.

The hotel corporation president, stated that at noon 50 firemen were battling the flames on the Awosting side of the mountains, and he added "they seem to be getting somewhere." Phillips stated that at that hour it appeared the fire on the Kerhonkson side was under control.

Phillips said emphatically, "there is no danger to the hotels." He highly praised the efforts of volunteer fire-fighters, Conservation Department men and civilian volunteers. "They are doing terrific work in retaining the fire that is burning in the tinder-box like woodlands," Phillips said.

Under Probe

The possibility that the fires in the Shawangunk Mountains are being set, was under investigation according to a report from the Lake Minnewaska area.

Meanwhile, similar operators were underway as firefighters and forest rangers, assisted by civilian volunteers, waged a tiring fight in an effort to control a major forest fire south of the Dutchess-Putnam county line. It was reported the fire on Sunday blackened more than 50 acres of woodland on Bull Hill, Town of Philipstown.

Hope Air Attack Is A Mistake

No Ground Fights In Tense Sector

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Turkey and the Greek Cypriot government agreed to a U.N. Security Council call for a cease-fire on this embattled island today. A brief Turkish air attack on a northwest village before Turkey's announcement sent a new scare through Cyprus.

Greece said it hoped the strafing attack on a square in Polis was due to a mix-up in Turkish military orders.

A government source in Nicosia said 10 persons were wounded in the Polis attack.

Call Accepted

A Turkish government spokesman said after a Cabinet meeting in Ankara that Turkey would accept the U.N. call for the cease-fire, but only on the condition that Greek Cypriots halt their attacks on Turks on the island. The Turkish Cabinet met an hour after reports of the Polis attack reached Ankara.

The Greek Cypriot government said it had ordered a cease-fire unilaterally as of Saturday. It made no mention of fighting that erupted around the Turkish village of Kokkina Sunday or around Nicosia Sunday night.

A Greek Cypriot spokesman said:

"In a statement today, Archbishop Makarios (Cyprus) president said the government of the Cyprus republic will fully respect a Security Council resolution on the cease-fire in Cyprus."

No Ground Fighting

There were no reports of ground fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots in the tense northwest coastal strip between Polis and Xeros.

The Soviet Union assailed the series of Turkish attacks and warned Turkey that it is risking war.

The attack on Polis was the fourth consecutive day of Turkish air activity over Cyprus. A Greek Cypriot spokesman said there was no word from Polis on whether there were casualties.

Alex Efty, an Associated Press correspondent at the scene, said the American-built F104 jets appeared while the townspeople were sipping coffee in the main square, most of them talking about the crisis. He said the villagers ducked for cover before the jets made two runs, firing into the square.

In Paris, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization disclosed that Turkey was withdrawing some of her air force from the alliance "for use in her national interest."

Press for Peace

The announcement from Supreme Allied Headquarters for Europe said "such action is permissible and provided for under the NATO treaty." The United States, Britain and other NATO members have been strenuously pressing for a settlement of the Cyprus strife to avoid an open breach between Turkey and Greece, guardians of NATO's eastern flank.

The alliance's permanent council was summoned into special session today to take up the Cyprus crisis for the third time in six days.

Saving Time May Be Due For Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — The words "daylight saving time" and America's crazy-quilt time system may be on the way out.

A House Commerce subcommittee will take up and likely approve a bill Tuesday that overhauls the U.S. time system and attempts to bring order out of what the Interstate Commerce Commission calls "increasing chaos" in American time.

A similar bill was approved by the Senate Commerce Committee. No public opposition has arisen so far, and there just may be enough time left to push the bill through Congress before the session ends.

Basically the bill would set up uniform areas that would move their clocks ahead and back at the same times every year. For the most part, the bill would do away with situations in which one community is on standard time and the town next door on daylight time.

Chaotic Situations

According to testimony before the House subcommittee, the country has such situations galore.

The bill now before Congress would try to end the nation's

ETHICAL MONEY MANAGEMENT

Ethical money management should be a profession and not a business. Medicine and law are recognized professions, and today, the proper handling of billions of dollars determines the financial welfare of millions of investors. Financial health is a sine qua non everywhere.

But unethical salesmanship is the force today behind the management of great amounts of money. The two-year-old investigation of the securities business is eloquent testimony of this fact.

This 32-year-old column receives an increasing number of letters from readers whose money has been badly handled. Managers are not entirely to blame. Money owners often expect the impossible, and in so doing, lay themselves open to unwarranted risk to attain high returns.

U. S. Government bonds—the best in the world—can be bought in any quantity to yield 4 per cent. Sound savings institutions are paying 4 1/4 to 4 1/2 per cent a year. Good growth common stocks of the world's best corporations can be bought to yield from 3 to 4 per cent.

But any investor expecting to get six and eight per cent yearly, and who blindly follows the advice of some selfish security salesman, is headed for trouble.

There are tens of thousands of investors in America who believe wild stories of incompetent investment people whose promises are built on sand.

I should like to suggest to the authorities in Washington that much of the new securities legislation that will be passed to protect investors will be ineffectual until and unless the professional and ethical standards of individuals operating in this field are higher than at present.

Rules and regulations and laws are poor substitutes for high ethical and professional standards.

In my opinion, managers of money who have the financial destiny of investors in their hands should be as qualified to do their work as are doctors in the field of medicine and lawyers in their field.

It takes nearly ten years for a Doctor of Medicine to hang out his own shingle. And a lawyer must pass bar examinations before he can practice his profession.

But in the securities sales field, thousands of incompetent money managers, with a year or two of inadequate training, today are managing great sums of money.

Liberal Arts colleges and universities from coast to coast could, and should, prepare students for a professional career in money management. Candidates for this activity should learn how to speak and write English well. They should major in economics. Material values are based on economic law. They should understand corporation finance thoroughly. They should study accounting so that they can interpret balance sheets and earnings statements.

Why do I write of this? Because I have been right in the center of money management for 40 years.

There are a million puzzled investors in America who will pay competent counselors from $200 to $5,000 a year for ethical and professional money management.

Orchid Hydrants?

Binghamton Lady Tries—City Frowns

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP)—Roses are red, fire hydrants too, and in the city of Binghamton, no other hue will do.

That's what Mrs. Charles Bachovchin learned after she painted the fire hydrant in front of her home an orchid color.

A city public works crew repainted the orchid-colored hydrant to its original red Friday, three days after Mrs. Bachovchin applied her brush to city property.

Mrs. Bachovchin likes orchid. Her porch furniture, lawn decorations and petunias are that color. But vandals took some of the ornaments.

She gazed at the hydrant this week and thought:

"That's one thing they can't take."

The thought became action and the hydrant became orchid-colored.

But city officials though not exactly seeing red over not seeing red, informed her she had violated a water department regulation. The penalty could be a $25 fine, 25 days in jail, or both.

They indicated they would drop any plans for prosecution—if she would drop the paint brush.

Mrs. Bachovchin agreed, took a last look at the orchid hydrant and said:

"It's really beautiful, they ought to paint all the rest of them that color. I would even pay them to let me keep it."

Life Insurance Queries, Answers

As a public service in cooperation with the Eastern New York Chapter of the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the following questions and answers are presented:

Question: I just discovered that my life insurance company has a direct equity investment in a local building corporation. How can this be permissible? I thought the life insurance companies were very tightly restricted of government bonds, mortgages and AAA bonds.

Answer: Not know your life insurance company, nor the details of the building corporation you mention, the precise answer cannot be given. It might involve a business mortgage, though you speak of an "equity" investment.

Whatever form, however, it is quite possible for a life insurance company to have such an investment in its portfolio. To start with, it should be said that the building corporation undoubtedly is a good project or there is little likelihood your company would include it in its portfolio.

As for the restrictions on life company investments, you are correct in major degree—but there is a major exception. Most states now have "leeway provisions" or basket clauses, as some call them, in their life insurance laws, permitting a limited investment in classes beyond those specified. At least 32 states allow some such leeway, ranging from 2 per cent to 10 per cent of assets. Also, it must be remembered that any life company can own any investment it wishes beyond those specified and those classes as "admitted assets." All "admitted assets" have to qualify to legal limitations, but any assets beyond that may be invested as desired. The state commissioners, of course, would closely watch all such investments and not permit them to build up in too large proportion.

ETHICAL MONEY MANAGEMENT

Ethical money management should be a profession and not a business. Medicine and law are recognized professions, and today, the proper handling of billions of dollars determines the financial welfare of millions of investors. Financial health is a sine qua non everywhere.

But unethical salesmanship is the force today behind the management of great amounts of money. The two-year-old investigation of the securities business is eloquent testimony of this fact.

This 32-year-old column receives an increasing number of letters from readers whose money has been badly handled. Managers are not entirely to blame. Money owners often expect the impossible, and in so doing, lay themselves open to unwarranted risk to attain high returns.

U. S. Government bonds—the best in the world—can be bought in any quantity to yield 4 per cent. Sound savings institutions are paying 4 1/4 to 4 1/2 per cent a year. Good growth common stocks of the world's best corporations can be bought to yield from 3 to 4 per cent.

But any investor expecting to get six and eight per cent yearly, and who blindly follows the advice of some selfish security salesman, is headed for trouble.

There are tens of thousands of investors in America who believe wild stories of incompetent investment people whose promises are built on sand.

I should like to suggest to the authorities in Washington that much of the new securities legislation that will be passed to protect investors will be ineffectual until and unless the professional and ethical standards of individuals operating in this field are higher than at present.

Rules and regulations and laws are poor substitutes for high ethical and professional standards.

In my opinion, managers of money who have the financial destiny of investors in their hands should be as qualified to do their work as are doctors in the field of medicine and lawyers in their field.

It takes nearly ten years for a Doctor of Medicine to hang out his own shingle. And a lawyer must pass bar examinations before he can practice his profession.

But in the securities sales field, thousands of incompetent money managers, with a year or two of inadequate training, today are managing great sums of money.

Liberal Arts colleges and universities from coast to coast could, and should, prepare students for a professional career in money management. Candidates for this activity should learn how to speak and write English well. They should major in economics. Material values are based on economic law. They should understand corporation finance thoroughly. They should study accounting so that they can interpret balance sheets and earnings statements.

Why do I write of this? Because I have been right in the center of money management for 40 years.

There are a million puzzled investors in America who will pay competent counselors from $200 to $5,000 a year for ethical and professional money management.

Mr. France has written a complete investment handbook: DOLLARS THAT GROW. For your copy, send $1 (no stamps) to Mr. Harry France, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Box 2492, Grand Central Station, New York 17, N. Y.

Titles Without Privileges Are Sold in England

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP)—Opportunity knocks: you too can become a lord of the manor. And all by the simple procedure of spending about $2,000—and outbidding other aspirants.

Eleven titles are going under the auctioneer's hammer at the Moot Hall, Colchester, Sept. 30.

The title lord of the manor goes back a thousand years or more. The ones on sale are comparatively new. They date from the 15th, 16th or 17th centuries.

Made Titles Hobby
The titles were bought up by Joseph Beaumont, grandfather of the present owner. Titles were a hobby of his. He bought more than 80 in Essex, Suffolk and Norfolk counties. His son bought more. Much of the collection has already been sold.

Let anyone become confused the title lord of the manor has nothing to do with a peerage. It has almost no privileges connected with it. Further, there is no real property involved.

Unless you already have a title you are still going to be called mister.

Once Had Privileges
In olden days, before the commoners came into Parliament and took rights unto themselves, the title meant lords of the manor could take back land for want of an heir. This fine practice was called escheat.

Manor lords could fine tenants whose daughters married outside the manor. The manor was not only the house, but also the estate around it where the serfs labored under the lord.

The manor lord could also exercise droit de seigneur—right of the lord to enjoy the first pleasures of the bridal bed of all marriages involving serfs within his manor.

These rights are gone forever, but the title still yields the freedom of grazing sheep on common lands. Any commoner today has the same right, however.

A True Esquire
The lord of the manor also is a true esquire and can write "Esq." after his name. A commoner can gain this courtesy simply by receiving a bill from his tailor.

The titles up for sale are well-documented. They include court rolls, surveys, court books, rentals and minute books which give a detailed account of their past histories.

C. M. Stanford and Son is selling the titles on behalf of J. L. Beaumont of Coggeshall, Essex.

They are the perfect gift—for someone who has everything.

3 Buildings Burned In Essex Blaze Sunday

JAY, N.Y. (AP)—Fire, said to have been started by a short-circuit in wiring, consumed two lumber company buildings and a house Sunday in this Essex County community.

Sidney Ward, operator of the Ward Lumber Co., placed the loss at $110,000.

Bernard Wallace, an employee of the lumber company, his wife and their daughter escaped from the house, which also was owned by Ward.

Fire departments, summoned from four surrounding communities, teamed with the Jay company to pump water from a river half a mile away.

The lumber yard buildings contained offices and warehouse facilities.

No one was at work at the time of the fire. Ward said it appeared that a short-circuit caused the fire.

Not until 1905 did scientists discover where and when eels, an important food fish, spawned.

No Complaints

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Wichita city leaders wonder if they have a town full of satisfied citizens.

A Post Office box, advertised as the place to send public complaints and general information for city fathers, received only one letter in two months.

City commissioners voted to cancel the box subscription.

IT'S A SERVICE THAT COUNTS!

Can you expect your bank to go all the way in meeting the convenience of the citizens of its community?

You can if it's The State of New York National Bank!

Sympathizing with the church treasurers, the coin machine merchandisers and others who receive coins—and who have to separate and count them before they know where they stand—The State of New York National Bank has just purchased an Automatic Coin Sorter and Counter machine to perform a free service for anyone (the offer is not confined solely to customers of the Bank) who has this problem.

Merely bring the bagful of assorted coins to the main banking office at 301 Wall Street where the machine will separate and count them at the rate of 400 per minute and compute an automatic total in dollars and cents. That amount will be handed to you in easy-to-handle bills of any preferred denominations.

This is the first machine of this kind owned by any bank in this area. Use it! That's what The State of New York National Bank bought it for!

3 Buildings Burned In Essex Blaze Sunday

JAY, N.Y. (AP)—Fire, said to have been started by a short-circuit in wiring, consumed two lumber company buildings and a house Sunday in this Essex County community.
Sidney Ward, operator of the Ward Lumber Co., placed the loss at $110,000.

Bernard Wallace, an employee of the lumber company, his wife and their daughter escaped from the house, which also was owned by Ward.
Fire departments, summoned from four surrounding communities, teamed with the Jay company to pump water from a river half a mile away.
The lumber yard buildings contained offices and warehouse facilities.
No one was at work at the time of the fire. Ward said it appeared that a short-circuit caused the fire.

Not until 1905 did scientists discover where and when eels, an important food fish, spawned.

Titles Without Privileges Are Sold in England

By MILTON MARMOR
LONDON (AP)—Opportunity knocks: you too can become a lord of the manor. And all by the simple procedure of spending about $2,000—and outbidding other aspirants.

Eleven titles are going under the auctioneer's hammer at the Moot Hall, Colchester, Sept. 30.
The title lord of the manor goes back a thousand years or more. The ones on sale are comparatively new. They date from the 15th, 16th or 17th centuries.
Made Titles Hobby
The titles were bought up by Joseph Beaumont, grandfather of the present owner. Titles were a hobby of his. He bought more than 80 in Essex, Suffolk and Norfolk counties. His son bought more. Much of the collection has already been sold.
Lest anyone become confused the title lord of the manor has nothing to do with a peerage. It has almost no privileges connected with it. Further, there is no real property involved.
Unless you already have a title you are still going to be called mister.

Once Had Privileges
In olden days, before the commoners came into Parliament and took rights unto themselves, the title meant lords of the manor could take back land for want of an heir. This fine practice was called escheat.
Manor lords could fine tenants whose daughters married outside the manor. The manor was not only the house, but also the estate around it where the serfs labored under the lord.
The manor lord could also exercise droit de seigneur—right of the lord to enjoy the first pleasures of the bridal bed of all marriages involving serfs within his manor.

These rights are gone forever, but the title still yields the freedom of grazing sheep on common lands. Any commoner today has the same right, however.

A True Esquire
The lord of the manor also is a true esquire and can write "Esq." after his name. A commoner can gain this courtesy simply by receiving a bill from his tailor.
The titles up for sale are well-documented. They include court rolls, surveys, court books, rentals and minute books which give a detailed account of their past histories.
C. M. Stanford and Son is selling the titles on behalf of J. L. Beaumont of Coggeshall, Essex.

They are the perfect gift—for someone who has everything.

IT'S A SERVICE THAT COUNTS!

Can you expect your bank to go all the way in meeting the convenience of the citizens of its community?

You can if it's The State of New York National Bank!

Sympathizing with the church treasurers, the coin machine merchandisers and others who receive coins—and who have to separate and count them before they know where they stand—The State of New York National Bank has just purchased an Automatic Coin Sorter and Counter machine to perform a free service for anyone (the offer is not confined solely to customers of the Bank) who has this problem.

Merely bring the bagful of assorted coins to the main banking office at 301 Wall Street where the machine will separate and count them at the rate of 400 per minute and compute an automatic total in dollars and cents. That amount will be handed to you in easy-to-handle bills of any preferred denominations.

This is the first machine of this kind owned by any bank in this area. Use it! That's what The State of New York National Bank bought it for!

U.N. AND RUSSIAN BLUFF

If Adolf Hitler was master of the "Big Lie" technique, Nikita Khrushchev has no rival in his use of the "Big Threat" method.

The latest threat—or bluff—to thunder from the Kremlin is the one that caused United Nations Secretary General U Thant to return from a bill-collecting mission to Moscow with a long face and haunted eyes.

Warned Khrushchev: if the U.N. pressed the issue of Russia's dues-delinquency to the point of taking away its vote, then Russia would walk out of the General Assembly and possibly the U.N. itself.

The United Nations is $122 million in the red, chiefly because of defaults on the assessments levied against all members to finance the peace keeping forces in the Middle East and the Congo. Largest chunk of this is owed by the U.S.S.R.—$54.7 million.

U Thant's dismay is understandable. It is not the matter of the money, but the prospect of the damage that might be done to the U.N. by the withdrawal of one of the two greatest nations in the world. It was the walkouts by Germany and Italy that sealed the fate of its predecessor, the League of Nations, in the 1930s.

But great harm could also result if Russia were allowed to go on shirking its obligation. For there are 16 other countries on the delinquent list, including De Gaulle's France, which owes $16 million.

With the example of Russia's successful defiance, these nations certainly would never pay up. A grave step toward anarchy within the world organization would have been taken.

Khrushchev's position is also understandable. He can easily conceive of the whole thing as an American plot.

It was the United States which promoted the change in rule that gave the small countries of the General Assembly the power to initiate action over the heads of the big powers in a veto-paralyzed Security Council. The United States backed the sending of international troops to the Middle East and the Congo. The United States has urged employment of the vote denial to force compliance to assessments passed by the General Assembly. The United States applauded the World Court decision that this was a legal power of that body.

Why, Khrushchev undoubtedly wonders, should he pay good Russian money to support American policy?

When the alternatives are balanced, however, the United Nations will have the least to lose—and perhaps the most to gain—by refusing to back down before the growls of the Russian bear.

In fact, the Russians themselves would have the most to gain by staying within the U.N. This is not the 1930s. The globe has shrunk and the nations on it have become vastly more interdependent since the days when Hitler and Mussolini could successfully ignore world opinion.

Nor does the U.N. represent world opinion alone; it is the meeting room of world diplomats. The Soviets are not likely to abandon their opportunities for contact and influence with the small nations of Africa and Asia and join their best-loved enemy and rival, Red China, in diplomatic exile. The United Nations has grown mightily in strength and wisdom since its founding 19 years ago. With a little faith on the part of its members, it will withstand this latest challenge.

A FAR-SEEING BILL

Numerous other pieces of current legislation have more immediate impact and may seem far more important than the wilderness bill just passed by the House of Representatives. Few offer the great long-range benefits that will accrue from this measure's enactment into law.

The prospects for enactment are excellent. Since the Senate approved a more liberal wilderness program in April 1963, it appears certain that a bill at least as good as the one that swept the House will

THE "TWO P's" AND THE ELECTION

Peace and prosperity are the ace cards which Lyndon Johnson has to play in the forthcoming election campaign, and they have normally been sufficient to win the game. Even major dissatisfactions over social issues unrelated to the "two p's" have not usually served to divert a majority of voters.

One thinks of the campaign of 1928, for example. Many people, at the time, were riled up over the catastrophic consequences of the Prohibition law. Bootlegging was rampant; the young people of the Jazz Age were imbibing disrespect for legal authority with every sip of "Jersey lightning" (applejack) or bathtub gin. Fortunes were being built in gangland on the illicit liquor traffic, and the money was flowing into legitimate businesses in a way that threatened gangster control of great enterprises. Yet Al Smith, the New York Democrat who was for repeal of Prohibition, couldn't make any headway against "Coolidge prosperity." And Herbert Hoover, as Coolidge's political heir, won the election. There was the side issue of religious prejudice in this election, of course. Yet if Al Smith had been a Protestant instead of a Catholic, the vote count would undoubtedly have still gone against him.

The peace issue, which dominated the campaigns of 1916, 1940 and 1952, was good for victory in every instance. The slogan, "he kept us out of war," returned Woodrow Wilson to the White House in 1916; Franklin Roosevelt's promise, "again and again and again," that he would not send American boys to foreign wars, beat back the claims of Wendell Willkie in 1940; and Eisenhower's statement that he would personally go to Korea with a view to winding up Mr. Truman's "police action" brought him votes in 1952.

How, then, can Lyndon Johnson lose this Autumn? It is inconceivable that the present boom will have played out by November. True enough, a recent Morgan Guaranty Survey mentions that housing starts peaked out at the end of 1963, and have been drifting lower ever since. The boom in apartment house construction is waning. But the work on building permits that have already been issued will not be demonstrably lower until very late in the year, presumably after the election count is in. And if 1965 is destined to be a mediocre year for automobile sales, the trend will probably not be fore-shadowed as early as September and October, when interest in the new car models will be lively. Meanwhile, the tax cut has served to keep the retail trade on an ascending curve.

The peace issue, however, could prove a stumbling block to a Johnson victory. When Brazil turned against its Communists, it was a major piece of luck for U.S. Democrats. But the Chilean election, which is coming up on September 4, could cancel out the gain for hemisphere peace that was made in Brazil. A Moscow publication, Sovetskaya Torgovlya, is already chortling over the prospect of a victory in Chile of Salvador Allende, who is the presidential candidate of the Popular Action Front, the party to which the Chilean Communists adhere. "With each passing day as the elections approach," so the "Observer's Notes" column in Sovetskaya Torgovlya says, "more and more Chileans are turning their eyes to Salvador Allende and the Front's progressive program. The people await the change." A heavy registration of women voters could beat Allende, which would not only save Chile but help Lyndon Johnson.

The situation in Vietnam is so fluid that it could work to the benefit of either Republicans or Democrats, depending on how the American people react to the necessity of further commitments to protect Southeast Asia. Lyndon Johnson could be the beneficiary of a patriotic war fever if the North Vietnamese and the Red Chinese continue to be sufficiently provocative. But if the war, once entered into more fully, turns out to be a "peace without victory" affair merely to preserve the status quo in a divided Asiatic country, an America that remembers the results of the Korean War could turn against the Democrats.

So much for the effect of prosperity and peace, the "two p's." There remains one other possibility that could scramble the election results. This is the possibility that disorders resulting from civil rights extremism will serve Goldwater as the Prohibition issue never served Al Smith. Precedents are all very well, but the time comes when every precedent is broken. (Copyright, 1964, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Toddler Doesn't Tattle?

Have Doctor Check Him

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assoc.

When a toddler refuses to tattle, it may be because he has a tiny fracture of the tibia bone of the lower leg. Since it is a small spiral or slantwise crack, X-ray findings may be difficult to evaluate. So this condition often goes unrecognized.

It is seen in children between the ages of 1 and 3. More often than not, the anxious parents cannot recall any injury to account for the break, but young children often get their legs caught between the bars of a crib or playpen.

If a child has previously been active and suddenly refuses to bear weight on his leg—suspect a fracture. He will very likely become irritable and will cry vigorously if any attempt is made to manipulate the affected leg. Sometimes there is also a slight swelling.

The treatment is immobilization of the leg in a plaster cast. When this is done, and the baby is back home, he will have less pain in the leg, and, even though he cannot move around freely, his disposition will be improved. The cast must be worn for from two to four weeks.

Some unfortunate infants probably worry through a siege of toddler's fracture for four or five weeks until spontaneous healing has occurred, but the emotional drain may ruin their disposition for years.

Q—Could a child put a cartridge shell or other object into his Eustachian tube? If so, could this be detected by X-ray several years later?

A—Since the Eustachian tube extends from the eardrum to the back of the throat, a child could not possibly put any kind of object into it. He could, however, put such an object into the external ear canal. X-ray would reveal the presence of such an object if it was metal or stone, but it is doubtful that a foreign body could remain in the ear canal long without causing pain and setting up an infection.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

The Goldwater imprint upon the Republican party at the national level already has produced some curious configurations.

Sen. Barry Goldwater's presidential candidacy got a tremendous lift from the South, but his managers have abolished the Republican National Committee's southern division and assigned its head, I. Lee Potter of Virginia, to campaign scheduling work.

One committee staff man now on the way out comments ruefully:

"The whole committee has become the southern division."

Obviously, John Grenier of Alabama, new executive director of the committee, is being depended upon for knowledgeable judgments about Barry's southern prospects.

ODD IT IS that Potter should come off no better than this, since he was always considered a pro-Goldwater man on a national committee staff which had fewer of them than was often rumored. Another alleged pro-San Francisco Goldwater supporter was William Warner, former executive director of the committee. But he has gained reward not from the senator, but from the GOP vice presidential nominee, Rep. William Miller of New York, the former national chairman. Warner will manage Miller's campaign.

It is no surprise, of course, that a triumphant Goldwater should be installing his own people in top committee echelons. This is the law of political life.

Yet, some of his major choices are not only new to national political management but reputed to be less than totally enchanted with the grubby business of negotiating steadily with politicians across the country.

Because of this, reports persist that Robert Carter, the Colorado airline official who served the GOP convention as sergeant-at-arms, may hook onto Goldwater's traveling campaign staff as key political liaison man.

Carter has worked with Leonard Hall, everybody's prototype of the party professional.

Carter is, however, being considered also for another assignment as an assistant to Clifford Folger, Republican money man, who has agreed to stage a series of big fund-raising dinners this fall.

THERE IS SOME EVIDENCE that Goldwater's intimates, have chosen Dean Burch as national chairman, urged a secondary role upon F. Clifton White, pre-nomination co-director of Goldwater field operations. White is rated one of the most seasoned political figures in the senator's camp. That seasoning could have been most useful in the top national committee strata.

If such an offer were actually made, it may not have appeared to White, who earlier had been marked for the national chairmanship. He is now being tapped to run Goldwater's extracurricular campaign effort designed to lure doctors, lawyers, independents and others who may not wish to identify too closely with the GOP as such.

The committee will, of course, have the professional assistance of Hall and Ray Bliss, Ohio national committeeman.

Still, Bliss will be heavily preoccupied with Ohio problems. And there have always been some skeptics who have questioned the weight of Hall's contributions to past campaigns.

Goldwater's managers, tinged then with some amateurism, may in the months ahead find themselves looking often to an unheralded professional they have drawn into their circle — the veteran Albert B. Hermann, a politician's politician working at Dean Burch's side.

What Johnson Considers Vice-Presidential Timber

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President

Johnson created a strange paradox the other day when announced that he would not select any member of his own Cabinet for the Vice-Presidential nomination. Yet if anything should happen to Mr. Johnson between now and Inauguration Day on Jan. 20 next and if the Speaker of the House and the presiding officer of the Senate should be incapacitated or unable to serve, the present law states specifically that, beginning with the Secretary of State, each member of the Cabinet is in line of succession to the Presidency.

Congress in the past has assumed that members of the cabinet would be the kind of persons qualified to take over the White House. Will the impression be conveyed now that not a single one of the 10 Cabinet members today is capable of being Vice-President or President?

Mr. Johnson in his public statement on July 30 used the following language:

"In reference to the selection of a candidate for Vice-President on the Democratic ticket, I have reached the conclusion that it would be inadvisable for me to recommend to the convention any member of the Cabinet or any of those who meet regularly with the Cabinet in this regard. Because their names have been mentioned in the press, I have personally informed the Secretary of State, Mr. Rusk, the Secretary of Defense, Mr. McNamara, the Attorney General, Mr. Kennedy, the Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Freeman, of my decision."

"I have communicated this to the United States Ambassador to the United Nations, Mr. Stevenson, and the head of the Peace Corps, Mr. Shriver."

"In this manner, the race has been considerably narrowed. I shall continue to give the most thoughtful consideration to the choice of the man that I will recommend to the convention and I shall make my decision known in due course."

President Johnson didn't explain why it seemed to him "inadvisable" to recommend any members of his Cabinet. One inference is that he meant "politically inadvisable." If so, it raises a question as to whether the present method of selecting President and Vice-President is concerned with the meritorious qualifications of worthy individuals or only the devious factors of party politics.

Also, the episode emphasizes that national party conventions do not do the choosing of the Vice-Presidential candidates but take orders from the Presidential nominee. This form of dictatorship is a far cry from the boast in the history books that, under the American system of government, the people always choose their President. It is true they vote for a particular ticket, selected by a national convention of delegates, but the second place is the dictated choice of one man.

It has occasioned widespread surprise that President Johnson didn't adjudge a single member of his Cabinet eligible for recommendation to the second spot on the Democratic party ticket. Attorney General Kennedy, against whom the maneuver was obviously directed, made a comment on it when he spoke last Thursday to a school of Congressional candidates of the Democratic party who were assembled to get some instruction in political techniques for the coming campaign. He said:

"I must confess I stand in awe of you. You are not members of the Cabinet, and you don't meet regularly with the Cabinet, and therefore you are eligible for Vice-President."

The Attorney General added that a lot of people had come to him asking whether he felt sad or glad. He said: "I sent a note to the various other Cabinet members and said that my one great regret was that I've taken so many other nice fellows over the side with me."

Many newspapers printed a wire service report which inadvertently omitted the word "other" in quoting Mr. Kennedy's remarks. But the recording presented on TV told the audience that the Attorney General, mindful of the equality doctrines of the day, properly included himself in the "nice fellows" group.

Whether all this was intended as sarcasm or just an expression of good humor, it has had a sequel. After Mr. Johnson at a press conference said that he would welcome into the Vice-Presidential race a whole gamut of able Governors, Senators, Representatives, as well as Mayors and other public men outside the Cabinet, Attorney General Kennedy is reported to have decided to run for the U. S. Senate from New York State. Maybe he hopes that, if elected Senator, he might thus have in 1968 a chance to be nominated, not just for Vice-President, but for President.

Then he, too, could pick his own Vice-President.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

It was a cold day. The train was packed in the station. One by one, 33 humorless Russians got aboard. None believed that the train would leave Zurich station.

The German diplomats had bought lunch at the Zähringer Hof for the emigres, but the Russians were suspicious. Their leader, Vladimir Ulyanov, got on the train grinning at the ridiculous notion that the Swiss would let them go, or that the Germans would transport them to Russia.

It was cold, and Ulyanov, a bald man who sustained a nervous breakdown every third year of his adult life, found a good compartment for himself and for his wife, Krupskaya. He pulled the window shade and began to read his newest panegyric, a critique of the Russian peasant revolt of February 1917. He wrote under the name, Nicolai Lenin.

At 3:10 p. m. the train edged forward and the Russians, split between ecstasy and fright, threw the shades up to watch the white Swiss countryside gather speed as it fled past the windows. Krupskaya was happy. She and Lenin had been away from Russia too long. Her husband was worried. The revolution of February 1917 was only two months old, a mild one at that, confined to Petrograd, and what if the revolutionary officials thought that Lenin had schemed with the Germans?

Germany was still at war with Russia. How could one account for being aboard a sealed train, leaving Russia and crossing Germany? To do this, a man must traffic with the enemy. Lenin had. For years he had been an exile—Switzerland, France, England—and the Czar's police had orders to arrest him on sight, but, in all those years he had not permitted the revolutionary underground to forget that he, N. Lenin, was a leader.

He had written monotonous monographs calling upon the workers to unite and arise, to fight the Czar, the Duma, and the police, to die if necessary, while Lenin remained safe behind his words and his borders. There had been abortive uprisings, and men had died in them. But Lenin urged a bigger revolution—"First Russia, then Europe in flames, then the world."

Nor had he any notion that the people would, in time, rule. He blue-printed a dictatorship of the proletariat—a dictatorship. The land and the institutions would be taken over by the people, and the people would be taken

U.N. AND RUSSIAN BLUFF

If Adolf Hitler was master of the "Big Lie" technique, Nikita Khrushchev has no rival in his use of the "Big Threat" method. The latest threat—or bluff—to thunder from the Kremlin is the one that caused United Nations Secretary General U Thant to return from a bill-collecting mission to Moscow with a long face and haunted eyes.

Warned Khrushchev: if the U.N. pressed the issue of Russia's dues-delinquency to the point of taking away its vote, then Russia would walk out of the General Assembly and possibly the U.N. itself.

The United Nations is $122 million in the red, chiefly because of defaults on the assessments levied against all members to finance the peace keeping forces in the Middle East and the Congo. Largest chunk of this is owed by the U.S.S.R.—$54.7 million.

U Thant's dismay is understandable. It is not the matter of the money, but the prospect of the damage that might be done to the U.N. by the withdrawal of one of the two greatest nations in the world. It was the walkouts by Germany and Italy that sealed the fate of its predecessor, the League of Nations, in the 1930s.

But great harm could also result if Russia were allowed to go on shirking its obligation. For there are 16 other countries on the delinquent list, including De Gaulle's France, which owes $16 million.

With the example of Russia's successful defiance, these nations certainly would never pay up. A grave step toward anarchy within the world organization would have been taken.

Khrushchev's position is also understandable. He can easily conceive of the whole thing as an American plot.

It was the United States which promoted the change in rule that gave the small countries of the General Assembly the power to initiate action over the heads of the big powers in a veto-paralyzed Security Council. The United States backed the sending of international troops to the Middle East and the Congo. The United States has urged employment of the vote denial to force compliance to assessments passed by the General Assembly. The United States applauded the World Court decision that this was a legal power of that body.

Why, Khrushchev undoubtedly wonders, should he pay good Russian money to support American policy?

When the alternatives are balanced, however, the United Nations will have the least to lose—and perhaps the most to gain—by refusing to back down before the growls of the Russian bear.

In fact, the Russians themselves would have the most to gain by staying within the U.N. This is not the 1930s. The globe has shrunk and the nations on it have become vastly more interdependent since the days when Hitler and Mussolini could successfully ignore world opinion.

Nor does the U.N. represent world opinion alone; it is the meeting room of world diplomats. The Soviets are not likely to abandon their opportunities for contact and influence with the small nations of Africa and Asia and join their best-loved enemy and rival, Red China, in diplomatic exile.

The United Nations has grown mightily in strength and wisdom since its founding 19 years ago. With a little faith on the part of its members, it will withstand this latest challenge.

A FAR-SEEING BILL

Numerous other pieces of current legislation have more immediate impact and may seem far more important than the wilderness bill just passed by the House of Representatives. Few offer the great long-range benefits that will accrue from this measure's enactment into law.

The prospects for enactment are excellent. Since the Senate approved a more liberal wilderness program in April 1963, it appears certain that a bill at least as good as the one that swept the House will

THE "TWO P'S" AND THE ELECTION

Peace and prosperity are the ace cards which Lyndon Johnson has to play in the forthcoming election campaign, and they have normally been sufficient to win the game. Even major dissatisfactions over social issues unrelated to the "two p's" have not usually served to divert a majority of voters.

One thinks of the campaign of 1928, for example. Many people, at the time, were riled up over the catastrophic consequences of the Prohibition law. Bootlegging was rampant; the young people of the Jazz Age were imbibing disrespect for legal authority with every sip of "Jersey lightning" (applejack) or bathtub gin. Fortunes were being built in gangland on the illicit liquor traffic, and the money was flowing into legitimate businesses in a way that threatened gangster control of great enterprises. Yet Al Smith, the New York Democrat who was for repeal of Prohibition, couldn't make any headway against "Coolidge prosperity." And Herbert Hoover, as Coolidge's political heir, won the election. There was the side issue of religious prejudice in this election, of course. Yet if Al Smith had been a Protestant instead of a Catholic the vote count would undoubtedly have still gone against him.

The peace issue, which dominated the campaigns of 1916, 1940 and 1952, was good for victory in every instance. The slogan, "Keep us out of war," returned Woodrow Wilson to the White House in 1916; Franklin Roosevelt's promise, emphasized "again and again and again," that he would not send American boys to foreign wars, beat back the claims of Wendell Willkie in 1940; and Eisenhower's statement that he would personally go to Korea with a view to winding up Mr. Truman's "police action" brought him votes in 1952.

How, then, can Lyndon Johnson lose this Autumn? It is inconceivable that the present boom will have played out by November. True enough, a recent Morgan Guaranty Survey mentions that housing starts peaked out at the end of 1963, and have been drifting lower ever since. The boom in apartment house construction is waning. But the work on building permits that have already been issued will not be demonstrably lower until very late in the year, presumably after the election count is in. And if 1965 is destined to be a mediocre year for automobile sales, the trend will probably not be fore-shadowed as early as September and October, when interest in the new car models will be lively. Meanwhile, the tax cut has served to keep the retail trade on an ascending curve.

The peace issue, however, could prove a stumbling block to a Johnson victory. When Barry turned against its Communists, it was a major piece of luck for U.S. Democrats. But the Chilean election, which is coming up on September 4, could cancel out the gain for hemisphere peace that was made in Brazil. A Moscow publication, Sovetskaya Torgovlya, is already chortling over the prospect of a victory in Chile of Salvador Allende, who is the presidential candidate of the Popular Action Front, the party to which the Chilean Communists adhere. "With each passing day as the elections approach," so the "Observer's Notes" column in Sovetskaya Torgovlya says, "more and more Chileans are turning their eyes to Salvador Allende and the Front's progressive program. The people await the change." A heavy registration of women voters could beat Allende, which would not only save Chile but help Lyndon Johnson.

The situation in Vietnam is so fluid that it could work to the benefit of either Republicans or Democrats, depending on how the American people react to the necessity of further commitments to protect Southeast Asia. Lyndon Johnson could be the beneficiary of a patriotic war fever if the North Vietnamese and the Red Chinese continue to be sufficiently provocative. But if the war, once entered into more fully, turns out to be a "peace without victory" affair merely to preserve the status quo in a divided Asiatic country, an America that remembers the results of the Korean War could turn against the Democrats.

So much for the effect of prosperity and peace, the "two P's." There remains one other possibility that could scramble the election results. This is the possibility that disorders resulting from civil rights extremism will serve Goldwater as the Prohibition issue never served Al Smith. Precedents are all very well, but the time comes when every precedent is broken. (Copyright, 1964, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THE WELL CHILD

Toddler Doesn't Tattle?
Have Doctor Check Him

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When a toddler refuses to toddle it may be because he has a tiny fracture of the tibia bone of the lower leg. Since it is a small spiral or slantwise crack, X-ray findings may be difficult to evaluate. So this condition often goes unrecognized.

It is seen in children between the ages of 1 and 3. More often than not, the anxious parents cannot recall any injury to account for the break, but young children often get their legs caught between the bars of a crib or playpen.

If a child has previously been active and suddenly refuses to bear weight on his leg—suspect a fracture. He will very likely become irritable and will cry vigorously if any attempt is made to manipulate the affected leg. Sometimes there is also a slight swelling.

The treatment is immobilization of the leg in a plaster cast. When this is done, and the baby is back home, he will have less pain in the leg, and, even though he cannot move around freely, his disposition will be improved. The cast must be worn for from two to four weeks.

Some unfortunate infants probably worry through a siege of toddler's fracture for four or five weeks until spontaneous healing has occurred, but the emotional drain may ruin their disposition for years.

Q—Could a child put a cartridge shell or other object into his Eustachian tube? If so, could it be detected by X-ray several years later?

A—Since the Eustachian tube extends from the eardrum to the back of the throat, a child could not possibly put any kind of object into it. He could, however, put such an object into the external ear canal. X-ray would reveal the presence of such an object if it was metal or stone, but it is doubtful that a foreign body could remain in the ear canal long without causing pain and setting up an infection.

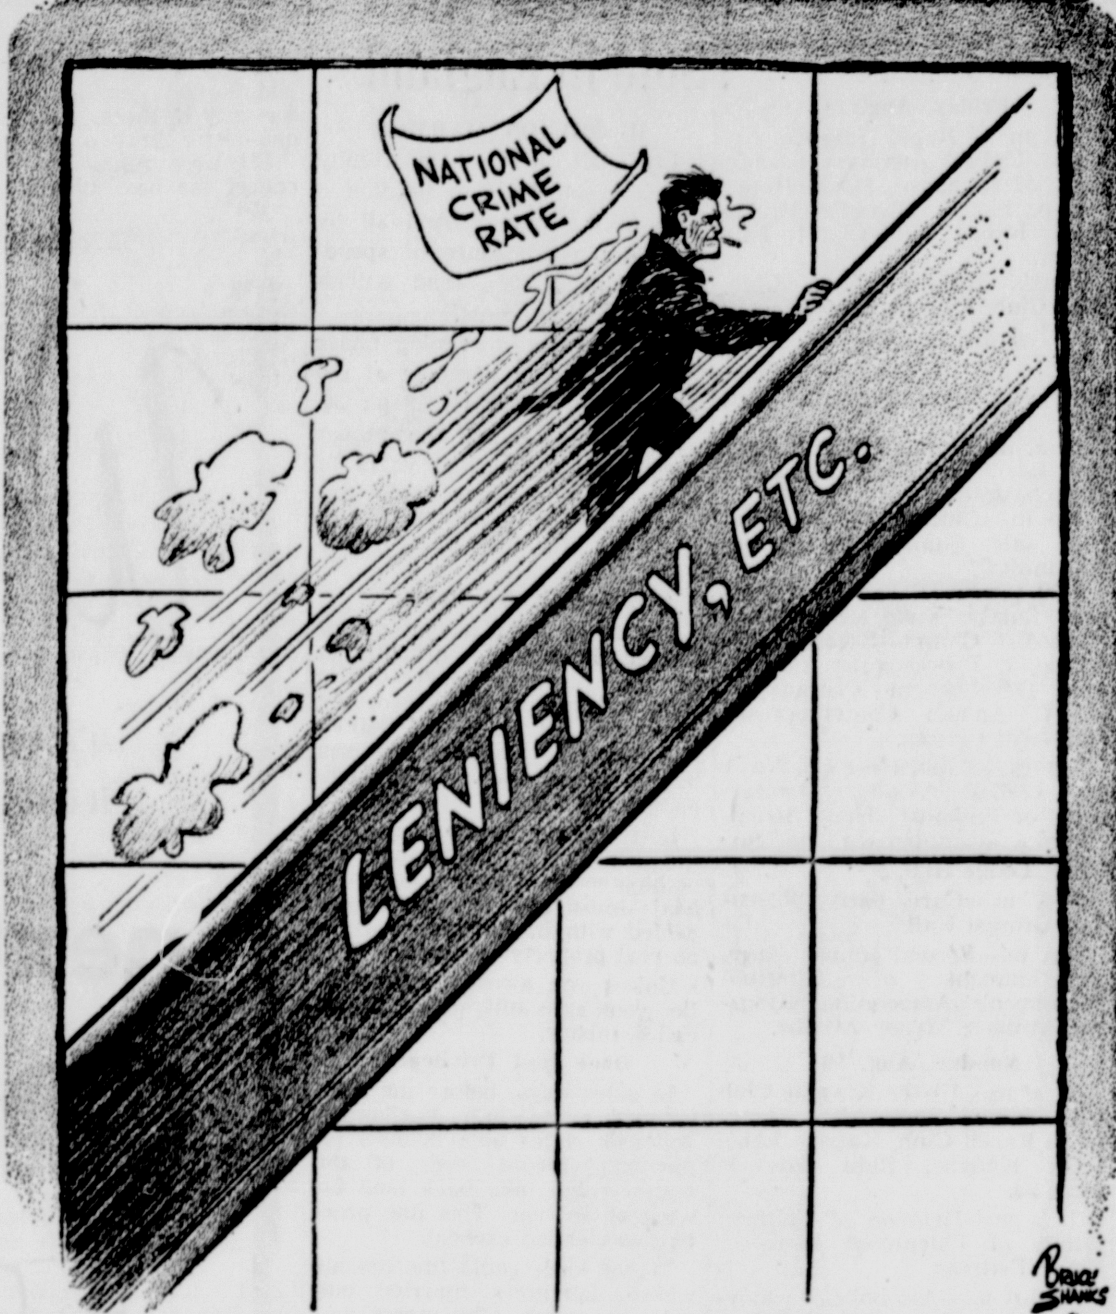

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Goldwater imprint upon the Republican party at the national level already has produced some curious configurations.

Sen. Barry Goldwater's presidential candidacy got a tremendous lift from the South, but his managers have abolished the Republican National Committee's southern division and assigned its head, I. Lee Potter of Virginia, to campaign scheduling work.

One committee staff man now on the way out comments ruefully:

"The whole committee has become the southern division."

Obviously, John Gremier of Alabama, new executive director of the committee, is being depended upon for knowledgeable judgments about Barry's southern prospects.

ODD IT IS that Potter should come off no better than this, since he was always considered a pro-Goldwater man on a national committee staff which had fewer of them than was often rumored.

Another alleged pro-San Francisco Goldwater supporter was William Warner, former executive director of the committee. But he has gained reward not from the senator, but from the GOP vice presidential nominee, Rep. William Miller of New York, the former national chairman. Warner will manage Miller's campaign.

It is no surprise, of course, that a triumphant Goldwater should be installing his own people in top committee echelons. This is the law of political life.

Yet, some of his major choices are not only new to national political management but reputed to be less than totally enchanted with the grubby business of negotiating steadily with politicians across the country.

Because of this, reports persist that Robert Carter, the Colorado airline official who served the GOP convention as sergeant-at-arms, may hook onto Goldwater's traveling campaign staff as key political liaison man. Carter has worked with Leonard Hall, everybody's prototype of the party professional.

Carter is, however, being considered also for another assignment as an assistant to Clifford Folger, Republican money man, who has agreed to stage a series of big fund-raising dinners this fall.

THERE IS SOME EVIDENCE that Goldwater's intimates, have chosen Dean Burch as national chairman, urged a secondary role upon F. Clifton White, pre-nomination co-director of Goldwater's field operations. White is rated one of the most seasoned political figures in the senator's camp. That seasoning could have been most useful in the top national committee strata.

If such an offer were actually made, it may not have appealed to White, who earlier had been marked for the national chairmanship. He is now being tapped to run Goldwater's extra-curricular campaign effort designed to lure doctors, lawyers, independents and others who may not wish to identify too closely with the GOP as such.

The committee will, of course, have the professional assistance of Hall and Ray Bliss, Ohio national committeeman.

Still, Bliss will be heavily pre-occupied with Ohio problems. And there have always been some skeptics who have questioned the weight of Hall's contributions to past campaigns.

Goldwater's managers, tinged then with some amateurism, may in the months ahead find themselves looking often to an unheralded professional they have drawn into their circle—the veteran Albert B. Hermann, a politician's politician working at Dean Burch's side.

Timely Quotes

The juggernaut is rolling and if we won't do something to stop it, the entire structure of the states is going to disappear in three to five years.

What Johnson Considers Vice-Presidential Timber

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Johnson created a strange paradox the other day when announced that he would not select any member of his own Cabinet for the Vice-Presidential nomination. Yet if anything should happen to Mr. Johnson between now and Inauguration Day on Jan. 20 next and if the Speaker of the House and the presiding officer of the Senate should be incapacitated or unable to serve, the present law states specifically that, beginning with the Secretary of State, each member of the Cabinet is in line of succession to the Presidency.

Congress in the past has assumed that members of the cabinet would be the kind of persons qualified to take over the White House. Will the impression be conveyed now that not a single one of the 10 Cabinet members today is capable of being Vice-President or President? Mr. Johnson in his public statement on July 30 used the following language:

"In reference to the selection of a candidate for Vice-President on the Democratic ticket, I have reached the conclusion that it would be inadvisable for me to recommend to the convention any member of the Cabinet or any of those who meet regularly with the Cabinet in this regard. Because their names have been mentioned in the press, I have personally informed the Secretary of State, Mr. Rusk, the Secretary of Defense, Mr. McNamara, the Attorney General, Mr. Kennedy, the Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Freeman, of my decision."

I have communicated this to the United States Ambassador to the United Nations, Mr. Stevenson, and the head of the Peace Corps, Mr. Shriver. "In this manner, the race has been considerably narrowed. I shall continue to give the most thoughtful consideration to the choice of the man that I will recommend to the convention and I shall make my decision known in due course."

President Johnson didn't explain why it seemed to him "inadvisable" to recommend any members of his Cabinet. One inference is that he meant "politically inadvisable." If so, it raises a question as to whether the present method of selecting the President and Vice-President is concerned with the meritorious qualifications of worthy individuals or only the devious factors of party politics.

Also, the episode emphasizes that national party conventions do not do the choosing of the Vice-Presidential candidates but take orders from the Presidential nominee. This form of dictatorship is a far cry from the boast

Quick Quiz

Q—Who was the first man to circumnavigate the globe under the American flag?

A—Capt. Robert Gray, discoverer of the Columbia River. He sailed from Boston in his ship Columbia in 1792 and returned in 1790.

The Generals thought it was good to send hot-headed revolutionaries to bleeding Russia. The Kaiser thought it was an excellent idea because, if he could help a revolution to its feet, it would bring Russia to her knees. Diego Bergen of the German Foreign Office sent emissaries to Lenin in Zurich. The man who made the final arrangements was Georg Sklarz.

At the Swiss-German border, the sealed train was stopped. Lenin expected to be double-crossed here, and shot by the Germans. The only thing that happened was that Swiss border guards stole chocolate bars. When the train started across Germany without incident, Lenin began to feel his dictatorship. He ordered no more smoking except in the lavatory, and, to prevent a rush on the lavatory, he wrote out admission tickets and gave one to each Russian.

They stopped at Karlsruhe, Frankfurt, Berlin and Sassnitz. There the group got aboard a steamer bound for neutral Sweden. They landed at Trelleborg after a slow, stormy crossing. By rail, they went to Malmö, ate and took another train to Stockholm. In the Swedish capital, Lenin drew up a manifesto asserting that he was not working for the Germans and had promised them nothing in return for their sealed train. He ordered all members of his Communist group, except children, to sign it.

At the Finnish border, Lenin filled out a customs declaration. When he crossed into Russian territory, he shook his fist and shouted: "We are in our own country now, and we'll show them we are worthy masters of the future."

The train paused at Belostrov, enroute to Petrograd, and the pale man with the spade beard asked if he would be arrested when he arrived. Arrested? He faced an enormous reception. He was a revolution-ary hero. In six months, the provisional government would be toppled; in time the city of Petrograd would be renamed Leningrad. He owned Russia.

The Kaiser sent him to Russia to foment revolution and thus weaken the front against Germany. Exactly 28 years later, Lenin's Communist savages overran Berlin. The doctrine of the Communist dictatorship now stains many parts of the world.

As Robert Payne writes in his biography of Lenin, the sickly despot once said: "I spit on Russia. That's only one stage we have to pass through on our way to world revolution."

The sealed train is an important footnote in history. (Copyright, 1964, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

EDWARD C. BYMAN

Named Associate General Chairman For Chest Drive

The associate general chairman for the 1965 Ulster County Community Chest Campaign is Edward C. Byman, it was announced today by Joseph J. Benjamin, general campaign chairman.

The associate general chairman's job is the second highest post in the campaign organization. As associate, Byman will guide the Pacemaker and Employee Divisions. In addition, the post carries with it the understanding that the associate will become the general campaign chairman for the following year's campaign.

Employed at IBM

Byman is special products manager at IBM, responsible for applications engineering, military systems, special projects engineering, and system development.

A graduate of the University of Connecticut, he is a member of Eta Kappa Nu and Tau Beta Pi.

Byman was Pacemaker Division chairman in the 1964 Chest campaign. The division raised $82,500, attained the highest percent of quota of all five campaign divisions. Byman also is treasurer of the Hurley Little League.

When queried about accepting a major campaign post Byman explained, "The Chest campaign is the biggest annual voluntary project in Ulster County. Dependent upon each campaign are dozen programs which serve thousands of people."

"Campaigning requires a lot of effort," Byman added. "But when you consider the number of people counting on you, you can't ignore your responsibility."

Praised by Chairman

According to Chairman Benjamin, the total campaign effort is very much related to the performance of the associate chairman. Byman established himself as top candidate for the job as a result of his efforts in the 1964 campaign.

"It's very comforting," says Benjamin, "to know that Ed Byman will be backing me up in this fall's campaign."

Cars in East Germany

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany reckons to have a million automobiles by 1970, a private Western intelligence agency reported.

Information Bureau West was quoting a report of the Transport Ministry. The ministry experts also estimated that the number would double by 1980.

A million autos would be one for every 17 inhabitants compared with one for every eight inhabitants of West Germany now.

Low production and sky-high prices make autos difficult to buy in East Germany, which has in Europe.

EDWARD C. BYMAN

Named Associate General Chairman For Chest Drive

The associate general chairman for the 1965 Ulster County Community Chest Campaign is Edward C. Byman, it was announced today by Joseph J. Benjamin, general campaign chairman.

The associate general chairman's job is the second highest post in the campaign organization. As associate, Byman will guide the Pacemaker and Employee Divisions. In addition, the post carries with it the understandings that the associate will become the general campaign chairman for the following year's campaign.

Employed at IBM

Byman is special products manager at IBM responsible for applications engineering, military systems, special projects engineering, and system development.

A graduate of the University of Connecticut, he is a member of Eta Kappa Nu and Tau Beta Pi.

Byman was Pacemaker Division chairman in the 1964 Chest campaign. The division raised $82,500, attained the highest per cent of quota of all five campaign divisions. Byman also is treasurer of the Hurley Little League.

When queried about accepting a major campaign post Byman explained, "The Chest campaign is the biggest annual voluntary project in Ulster County. Dependent upon each campaign are dozen programs which serve thousands of people."

"Campaigning requires a lot of effort," Byman added. "But when you consider the number of people counting on you, you can't ignore your responsibility."

Praised by Chairman

According to Chairman Benjamin, the total campaign effort is very much related to the performance of the associate chairman. Byman established himself as top candidate for the job as a result of his efforts in the 1964 campaign.

"It's very comforting," says Benjamin, "to know that Ed Byman will be backing me up in this fall's campaign."

City Demo Leader Says BPW Could Impose Sidewalk Tax

Two Hit-and-Run Mishaps Reported During Weekend

Local police were notified late Sunday morning that a car, which struck a bicycle injuring two girls on the macadam in the Kingston Shopping Plaza, continued toward Route 28 without stopping to determine the results of the mishap.

Two other weekend mishaps were reported.

Injured at the Plaza Sunday and treated at Kingston Hospital were: Candice Sicker, 12, of 39 Taylor Street, who suffered a bump on the head and injuries of the right and left arm, and Dawn Mertine, 4, of 672 Broadway, who was riding the bicycle with Candice, and was treated for injuries of the face, head and left foot.

Police searched the area for what was described as a "pink car" occupied by two men.

The mishap was reported to Sgt. Bernard Fowler at police headquarters at 11:40 a. m. Detective Harold DeGraff, with officers Weston Hoffay and Anthony Turk were dispatched to the area and investigate the mishap, and all area police were notified.

Another "hit-and-run" mishap, involving no reported injuries, was reported at 4:45 p. m. Sunday.

Alfred F. Henion, 55, of 24 East St. James Street, reported that while his car was parked at the curb near the YMCA on Pine Grove Avenue, it was struck by another, which backed out of a parking space and continued without stopping, after striking Henion's car.

Joseph Komasa, 65, of 100 Pearl Street, was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum ambulance for treatment of a nose injury after a car-pedestrian mishap reported at 3:02 p. m. Saturday, at Green and Pearl streets. Police said the car was operated by Josephine J. Slater, 34, of RD 3, Box 84, Saugerties, who said after halting for a stop sign, and turning left, she heard a "thump" at the rear of the car, stopped at once, and saw the man lying in the street.

Traffic Blocked By Derailed Cars

Deraiment of two engines and three gondola cars on the mountain branch of the New York Central Railroad at the Hasbrouck Avenue crossing near Mill Street, Sunday night blocked traffic on lower Hasbrouck Avenue during the night and today.

Police headquarters was notified of the deraiment at 7:25 p. m., and reports were relayed to the fire department and ambulance services.

The street is blocked off a short distance above and below the crossing, and reports late this morning indicated that workmen would be on the job through the afternoon before all units were righted on the rails.

The cars were slewed along the tracks at the curve through a narrow passage between buildings on the upgrade end of the crossing.

James T. McCordie, democratic city chairman, in a statement today, dealing with installation of sidewalks and curbing near the new John F. Kennedy School in the Hasbrouck Park area, holds that the Board of Public Works, if it so desired, could impose 25 per cent of the cost of the project against the city.

"In view of the recent controversy over the construction of sidewalks in the Fifth Ward," he said, "I think the public should be advised of the facts in this case, which seem to have been clouded over, or deliberately overlooked."

Among six points made by McCordie was that "The corporation council agreed with the Democratic administration that the BPW could establish the assessment at 75 per cent (for property holders) if they desired to."

Other Points

His other points were: that the council "unanimously indicated its disapproval of 100 per cent assessment (against property holders) by amending the original bond ordinance to read 75-25 per cent; that the mayor vetoed it, and stated that 100 per cent assessment is required under the city charter."

He holds also that "The Republican aldermen voting in favor of the 100 per cent assessment, were the same ones who voted for the 75 per cent assessment, presented one day before; that the Republican Majority Leader (John Machione R) 12th Ward) who voted for the 100 per cent assessment this time, also voted for 75 per cent assessment before, and criticized the BPW for 'riding rough-shod' over the Common Council."

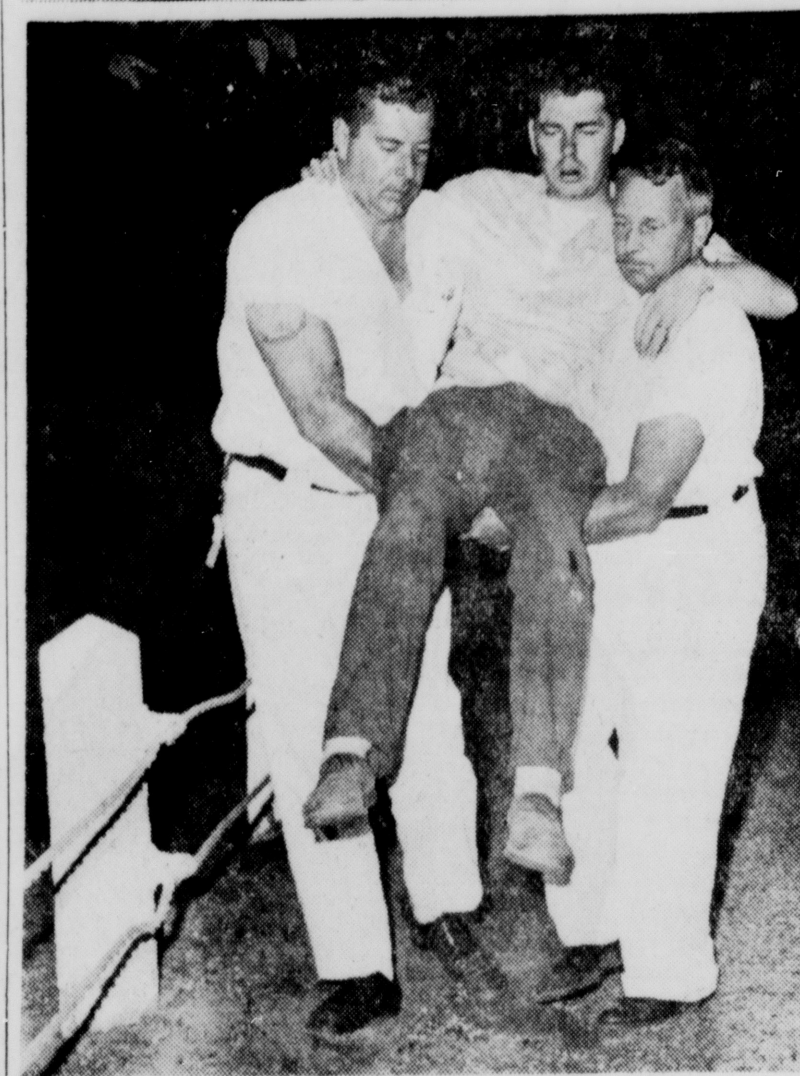

He also holds that "Mr. Armater (Alderman Raymond Armater R) 11th Ward) suggested informally that he would be agreeable to sending the ordinance back to the BPW for reconsideration as a 75 per cent assessment. When the Democratic Minority Leader James F. Howland (D) 10th Ward) attempted to put it in a motion, Armater moved to adjourn the meeting."

To him, McCordie said, this action appeared to be "a deliberate attempt by the mayor, to break down the individuality of the Republican aldermen, and control them by sheer dictatorship. Frankly they do not appear to be standing up well under the pressure."

McCordie's View

A final point needed clarification, he held, is that Democratic aldermen "are not opposed to safety of our school children. To intimate otherwise, is ridiculous." Opposition, he said, "is to the fact that these people in the Fifth Ward, are being victimized as a result of a situation over which they had no control. Children from many parts of the city will be using these sidewalks. I do not think it too much to ask that 25 per cent of the cost be allocated over the entire city."

He said he felt that if the mayor "is really concerned about this matter, he knows what the feelings of the aldermen are, and could advise the BPW to submit an ordinance to the Common Council calling for a 75-25 per cent assessment, and it would be passed almost unanimously. In summation, I think it is time for the mayor to come in out of left field, and realize that there are other members on the team."

RIFTON MISHAP — Four men were injured early Saturday in a one-car mishap on Route 213 about a mile east of Route 32 at Rifton. At Kingston Hospital are Douglas Freer, 24, Woodstock, and John Schuman, 25, Kingston, both satisfactory, and Edward Pelham, 20, Saugerties, serious. John Hendricks, 36, Kingston was released from the hospital on Sunday. Trooper Wallace Mahan of Highland station inspects damage at the scene. Doctor's ambulance attendants, Gilbert Gray and Donald Pop assist John Schuman (center) to ambulance. Troopers said Freer was proceeding west on Route 213 when his car crossed the north side of the road and hit six guard posts and a tree.

Monticello Bride Held in Stabbing Of Her Husband

A Sullivan County bride of 24 days, accused of fatally stabbing her husband during an argument Saturday night was ordered for grand jury action in that county, after she waived a preliminary examination on a felony charge of first degree manslaughter.

State Police at Ferndale said Mrs. Betty Brock Reeves, 35, of Liberty Street, Monticello, was held in the knife slaying of her husband, Lawrence Reeves, 27, at their Monticello residence. They said she allegedly stabbed her husband, then called police. Upon their arrival, troopers said they found Reeves lying dead on his back on the kitchen floor.

It was reported that Reeves was seen earlier beating his wife on a Monticello street. Both she and her husband had police records for assaults, it was reported.

Ferris Is Held For Assault, Faces 3 Charges

A local man held on two third degree assault charges after reported trouble at a downtown tavern early today, was booked on a third similar charge when it was noted that a warrant dating back to 1960, was held at police headquarters.

A police report shortly after midnight noted "a disturbance" at the Ja-Mar Tavern, 131 Hasbrouck Avenue. Detective William Slover, with officers Gerald Tierney, Junious Harris and William Whalen were dispatched there, and assault charges against John J. Ferris, 33, of 141 St. James Street, were lodged by Joseph S. Castle, of 266 Albany Avenue, and Gloria Miltner, of 149 West O'Reilly Street.

Sgt. Garvin Fisher, noted that a warrant had been held at police headquarters, charging Ferris with third degree assault. It dates back to Nov. 30, 1960, and was executed. The complainant is listed as Thomas Carpino, of 673 Broadway.

City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman today adjourned hearing to Aug. 12. Bail, fixed at $150, was to be posted.

Thomas Davide, 16, of 165 Abert Street, was arrested Saturday afternoon on a warrant executed by Officer George Dougherty and charging third degree assault. Hearing was put over to Aug. 12 and bail of $100 was posted.

town office of the Conservation Department told a Freeman reporter this morning that upwards of 800 acres were involved in the Shawangunk Mountain fire.

Fire authorities called for volunteers from all parts of the county on Sunday, after the fire flashed furiously through the rugged country north of Ellenville. The fire had been brought under control late yesterday, but 30 to 40-mile gusts caused the flames to flare again and race in a westerly direction, threatening hundreds of acres of forest.

Ulster County Fire Co-ordinator Winfred Snyder, Hurley, returned to the fire area this morning to assist forest rangers and fire chiefs in directing volunteers in an effort to establish fire walls to prevent further spread of the flames.

Fire Chief Larry Capozzi of Clintondale, who was at the scene Sunday with a large group of firefighters from his district, said Louis Dolcemascio, a civilian volunteer and former fireman, was injured while assisting at the fire yesterday.

The chief said Dolcemascio was taken to a hospital here and treated for a sprained ankle. He was later released.

Capozzi told the Freeman this forenoon the fire was still not controlled, and flames were racing through the rugged terrain in a westerly direction in the area of Route 44-55 north of Ellenville.

Protective Measure

Reports from the area stated that Conservation Department officials last night called most of the volunteers out of the forest because of the danger of tipping into crevices in the darkness.

A fire watch was maintained through the night by experienced forest rangers and other CD men. At day break many fire companies returned to battle the flames.

Kerkhouson firemen in command of Chief Emanuel Samuels were among the first groups dispatched to the scene.

Fire officials said the Shawangunk Mountain fire started Saturday, and at first was classified as a minor blaze. At about 1 p. m. strong gusts of wind fanned the flames out of control.

The fire line, reportedly extending about six miles, was reported to be on the Lake Minnekahta property, but authorities said that road was still open.

The major problem confronting firefighters today was the rapid spread of the fire to sections of the mountains that are impassable.

It was reported that three Conservation Department planes were on the scene Sunday and were dropping water and chemicals into the worst parts of the burning area. Appeals were sent for small motor vehicles that could penetrate the mountainous terrain and carry volunteers and equipment to the vital points.

Humphrey F. Hedgecock, district forest ranger for Dutchess-Putnam-Westchester counties, today ordered all burning permits cancelled and directed that no further permits be issued in that area until further notice.

Hedgecock said strong winds yesterday repelled efforts of a conservation department to blot out fire outbreaks near the Dutchess-Putnam county line near Philipstown. He said a converted military torpedo bomber — now equipped with two torpedo-shaped tanks — each holding 425 gallons of water — was expected to be pressed into service to provide additional water.

Fire in Taxi

Firemen were called at 6:31 a. m. today to check a blaze in a taxi of the Economy Cab Co., 12 Wilbur Avenue, but it was out upon their arrival. A unit from Wiltwyck Station with Capt. Edwin P. Murphy in charge, answered the call to Tompkins Street. A carburetor backfire had caused the blaze in the motor of the cab driven by Albert Snow, Decker Street, Town of Ulster. The hood and motor were damaged.

DOCTORS AMBULANCE SERVICE COMPLETES 2nd YEAR

On August 6th, DOCTORS AMBULANCE SERVICE, 77 Greenkill Avenue, completed their 2nd full year of operation. Gilbert E. Gray, proprietor, proudly points to this record; the only Ambulance Service, operated by a veteran; Gil Gray having served in the U. S. Marine Corps during the Korean conflict; newest and finest equipped ambulance, available to all Ulster County residents; two-way radio equipped; all personnel are thoroughly experienced and each is Red Cross trained. Gil Gray is most experienced, non-professional "baby deliverer" in Ulster County, having assisted in 13 births that "didn't make the Hospital." Some statistical accomplishments include more than 60,000 miles of travel in these 2 years, picking up people in need of help from as far away as Canada to the Florida border; also covering the States of New Jersey, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Connecticut, Massachusetts, District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia, and of course most of New York State. In our second year we answered a total of 3,500 calls. The men pictured (1 to 7) are Donald Popp, Gilbert E. Gray, George Dohnken, James Silks, all of whom have been part of this firm since its inception. A newly added service is Oxygen Therapy to supply the Home, Churches, Schools, Factories and Automobiles. The staff at Doctors Ambulance thanks you for your support, and pledges to continue to supply you with the best service humanly possible in the years to come.

City Demo Leader Says BPW Could Impose Sidewalk Tax

Two Hit-and-Run Mishaps Reported During Weekend

Local police were notified late Sunday morning that a car, which struck a bicycle injuring two girls on the macadam in the Kingston Shopping Plaza, continued toward Route 28 without stopping to determine the results of the mishap.

Two other weekend mishaps were reported.

Injured at the Plaza Sunday and treated at Kingston Hospital were: Candice Sicker, 12, of 39 Taylor Street, who suffered a bump on the head and injuries of the right and left arm, and Dawn Mertine, 4, of 672 Broadway, who was riding the bicycle with Candice, and was treated for injuries of the face, head and left foot.

Police searched the area for what was described as a "pink car" occupied by two men.

The mishap was reported to Sgt. Bernard Fowler at police headquarters at 11:40 a. m. Detective Harold DeGraff with officers Weston Hoffay and Anthony Turk were dispatched to tour the area, and investigate the mishap, and all area police were notified.

"Another 'hit-and-run' mishap, involving no reported injuries, was reported at 4:45 p. m. Sunday.

Alfred F. Henion, 55, of 24 East St. James Street, reported that while his car was parked at the curb near the YMCA on Pine Grove Avenue, it was struck by another, which backed out of a parking space and continued without stopping, after striking Henion's car.

Joseph Komasa, 65, of 100 Pearl Street, was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum ambulance for treatment of a nose injury after a car-pedestrian mishap reported at 3:02 p. m. Saturday, at Green and Pearl streets. Police said the car was operated by Josephine J. Slater, 34, of RD 3, Box 84, Saugerties, who said after halting for a stop sign, and turning left, she heard a "thump" at the rear of the car, stopped at once, and saw the man lying in the street.

Traffic Blocked By Derailed Cars

Deraiment of two engines and three gondola cars on the mountain branch of the New York Central Railroad at the Hasbrouck Avenue crossing near Mill Street, Sunday night blocked traffic on lower Hasbrouck Avenue during the night and today.

Police headquarters was notified of the deraiment at 7:25 p. m., and reports were relayed to the fire department and ambulance services.

The street is blocked off a short distance above and below the crossing, and reports late this morning indicated that workmen would be on the job through the afternoon before all units were righted on the rails.

The cars were derailed along the tracks at the curve through a narrow passage between buildings on the upgrade end of the crossing.

James T. McCardle, democratic city chairman, in a statement today, dealing with installation of sidewalks and curbing near the new John F. Kennedy School in the Hasbrouck Park area, holds that the Board of Public Works, if it so desired, could impose 25 per cent of the cost of the project against the city.

"In view of the recent controversy over the construction of sidewalks in the Fifth Ward," he said, "I think the public should be advised of the facts in this case, which seem to have been clouded over, or deliberately overlooked."

Among six points made by McCardle, was that "The corporation council agreed with the Democratic aldermen that the BPW could establish the assessment at 75 per cent (for property holders) if they desired to."

Other Points

His other points were: that the council "unanimously indicated its disapproval of 100 per cent assessment (against property holders) by amending the original bond ordinance to read 75-25 per cent; that "the mayor vetoed it, and stated that 100 per cent assessment is required under the city charter."

He holds also that "The Republican aldermen voting in favor of the 100 per cent assessment, were the same ones who voted for the 75 per cent assessment, presented one day before; that the Republican Majority Leader (John Machione (R) 12th Ward) who voted for the 100 per cent assessment this time, also voted for 75 per cent assessment before, and criticized the BPW for 'riding rough-shod' over the Common Council."

He also holds that "Mr. Armater Alderman Raymond Armater (R) 11th Ward) suggested informally that he would be agreeable to sending the ordinance back to the BPW for reconsideration as a 75 per cent assessment. When the Democratic Minority Leader James F. Howard (D) 10th Ward) attempted to put it in a motion, Armater moved to adjourn the meeting."

To him, McCardle said, this action appeared to be "a deliberate attempt by the mayor, to break down the individuality of the Republican alderman, and control them by sheer dictatorship. Frankly they do not appear to be standing up well under the pressure."

McCardle's View

A final point needed clarification, he held, is that Democratic aldermen "are not opposed to safety of our school children. To intimate otherwise, is ridiculous." Opposition, he said, "is to the fact that these people in the Fifth Ward, are being victimized as a result of a situation over which they had no control. Children from many parts of the city will be using these sidewalks. I do not think it too much to ask that 25 per cent of the cost be allocated over the entire city."

He said he felt that if the mayor "is really concerned about this matter, he knows what the feelings of the aldermen are, and could advise the BPW to submit an ordinance to the Common Council calling for a 75-25 per cent assessment, and it would be passed almost unanimously. In summation, I think it is time for the mayor to come in out of left field, and realize that there are other members on the team."

RIFTON MISHAP—Four men were injured early Saturday in a car-mishap on Route 213 about a mile east of Route 32 at Rifton. At Kingston Hospital are Douglas Freer, 24, Woodstock, and John Schuman, 25, Kingston, both satisfactory, and Edward Pelham, 20, Saugerties, serious. John Hendricks, 36, Kingston was released from the hospital on Sunday. Trooper Wallace Mahan of Highland station inspects damage at the scene. Doctor's ambulance attendants, Gilbert Gray and Donald Popp assist John Schuman (center) to ambulance. Troopers said Freer was proceeding west on Route 213 when his car crossed the north side of the road and hit six guard posts and a tree.

Monticello Bride Held in Stabbing Of Her Husband

A Sullivan County bride of 24 days, accused of fatally stabbing her husband during an argument Saturday night was ordered for grand jury action in that county, after she waived a preliminary examination on a felony charge of first degree manslaughter.

State Police at Ferndale said Mrs. Betty Brock Reeves, 35, of Liberty Street, Monticello, was held in the knife slaying of her husband, Lawrence Reeves, 27, at their Monticello residence. They said she allegedly stabbed her husband, then called police. Upon their arrival, troopers said they found Reeves lying dead on his back on the kitchen floor.

It was reported that Reeves was seen earlier beating his wife on a Monticello street. Both she and her husband had police records for assaults, it was reported.

Ferris Is Held For Assault, Faces 3 Charges

A local man held on two third degree assault charges after reported trouble at a downtown tavern early today, was booked on a third similar charge when it was noted that a warrant dating back to 1960, was held at police headquarters.

A police report shortly after midnight noted "a disturbance" at the Ja-Mar Tavern, 131 Hasbrouck Avenue. Detective William Slover, with officers Gerald Tierney, Junious Harris and William Whalen were dispatched there, and assault charges against John J. Ferris, 33, of 141 St. James Street, were lodged by Joseph S. Castle, of 266 Albany Avenue, and Gloria Milner, of 149 West O'Reilly Street.

Sgt. Garvin Fisher, noted that a warrant had been held at police headquarters, charging Ferris with third degree assault. It dates back to Nov. 30, 1960, and was executed. The complainant is listed as Thomas Carpino, of 673 Broadway.

City Judge Joseph D. Saccamano today adjourned hearing to Aug. 12. Bail, fixed at $150, was to be posted.

Thomas Davide, 16, of 165 Abel Street, was arrested Saturday afternoon on a warrant executed by Officer George Dougherty and charging third degree assault. Hearing was put over to Aug. 12 and bail of $100 was posted.

town office of the Conservation Department told a Freeman reporter this morning that upwards of 800 acres were involved in the Shawangunk Mountain fire.

Call for Volunteers

Fire authorities called for volunteers from all parts of the county on Sunday, after the fire flashed furiously through the rugged country north of Ellenville. The fire had been brought under control late yesterday, but 30 to 40-mile gusts caused the flames to flare again and race in a westerly direction, threatening hundreds of acres of forest.

Ulster County Fire Co-ordinator Winfred Snyder, Hurley, returned to the fire area this morning to assist forest rangers and fire chiefs in directing volunteers in an effort to establish fire walls to prevent further spread of the flames.

Fire Chief Larry Capozzi of Clintondale, who was at the scene Sunday with a large group of firefighters from his district, said Louis Dolcemascio, a civilian volunteer and former fireman, was injured while assisting at the fire yesterday.

The chief said Dolcemascio was taken to a hospital here and treated for a sprained ankle. He was later released.

Capozzi told the Freeman this forenoon the fire was still not controlled, and flames were racing through the rugged terrain in a westerly direction in the area of Route 44-55 north of Ellenville.

Protective Measure

Reports from the area stated that Conservation Department officials last night called most of the volunteers out of the forest, because of the danger of toppling into crevices in the darkness.

A fire watch was maintained through the night by experienced forest rangers and other CD men. At day break many fire companies returned to battle the flames.

Kerhonkson firemen in command of Chief Emanuel Samuels were among the first groups dispatched to the scene.

Fire officials said the Shawangunk Mountain fire started Saturday, and at first was classified as a minor blaze. At about 1 p. m. strong gusts of wind fanned the flames out of control.

The fire line, reportedly extending about six miles, was reported to be on the Lake Minne-waska property, but authorities said that road was still open.

The major problem confronting firefighters today was the rapid spread of the fire to sections of the mountains that are impassible.

It was reported that three Conservation Department planes were on the scene Sunday and were dropping water and chemicals into the worst parts of the burning area. Appeals were sent out for small motor vehicles that could penetrate the mountainous terrain and carry volunteers and equipment to the vital points.

Humphrey F. Hedgecock, district forest ranger for Dutchess-Putnam-Westchester counties, today ordered all burning permits cancelled and directed that no further permits be issued in that area until further notice.

Hedgecock said strong winds yesterday repelled efforts of a conservation department to blot out fire outbreaks near the Dutchess-Putnam county line near Philipstown. He said a converted military torpedo bomber—now equipped with two torpedo-shaped tanks—each holding 425 gallons of water was expected to be pressed into service to provide additional water.

Fire in Taxi

Firemen were called at 6:31 a. m. today to check a blaze in a taxi of the Economy Cab Co., 12 Wilbur Avenue, but it was out upon their arrival. A unit from Wiltwyck Station with Capt. Edwin P. Murphy in charge answered the call to Tompkins Street. A carburetor backfire had caused the blaze in the motor of the cab driven by Albert Snow, Decker Street. Town of Ulster. The hood and motor were damaged.

DAVITT—Helen T. (nee Cashin) on Friday, August 7, 1964 of 25 Charlotte Street, Kingston; beloved wife of Thomas M. Davitt Sr.; mother of Thomas M. Davitt Jr., and Mrs. Daniel (Joanne) Manning; sister of John E. Cashin, and daughter of the late Edward R. and Ella Hartman Cashin.

Funeral will be held from the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 27 Smith Avenue, on Tuesday, August 11, at 9:30 a. m. thence to St. Joseph's Church where a solemn high Mass of requiem will be offered at 10 a. m. for the repose of her soul. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery. Friends will be received Sunday and Monday from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9.

Two Found Guilty
Two drivers, booked on traffic charges, were tried in city court today after pleading innocent. Leslie Quint, 27, of Tillson, found guilty of speeding, was fined $10. Decision was reserved until Aug. 24, after trial of William Seabury, 36, of Ulster Park, charged with a red light violation. Five drivers, admitting charges of speeding, paid $75 in fines. They were: William H. Williams, 31, of Rosendale; John W. Dalluse, 20, of St. Remy; John G. Szura, 44, of 56 Montrose Avenue; Nicholas Pezello, 39, of Rosendale, and Richard Turpening, 19, of Rifton. Donald Purdy, 28, of 28 Stuyvesant Street, charged with a stop-sign violation, was fined $10.

Card of Thanks
We wish to thank all our relatives, friends and neighbors for all their kindness and expressions of sympathy extended to us during the illness and death of my husband and our father, Anthony P. Bonacci.

Klugman to Play In Comic Series, Won Emmy Once

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Interviews with Jack Klugman usually start with one question: "What on earth is the actor who won an Emmy for last season's finest dramatic performance doing playing father in one of these half-hour situation comedies?" Klugman's forthright response provides no release from press agent pain.

"I signed to do the show before I got the Emmy. Of course I'd never have done it if the Emmy had come first."

Klugman gave an impressive performance on CBS' "The Defenders" as an actor whose left-wing political beliefs destroyed his career.

Comedy Trilogy

In October he will turn up as a regular in a piece of NBC fluff

Musical 'Auntie Mame'

NEW YORK (AP) Mary Martin is getting together with "Auntie Mame" for her next Broadway visit.

A musical version of the click comedy of 1956 is being prepared by its original adapters, Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee. The score is being done by called "Harris Against the World." It is part of a comedy trilogy titled "90 Bristol Court."

"They offered me a firm commitment for 26 weeks," Klugman continued, "and I decided to take the show because it was important for me to get stabilized for a while. I found I was spending at least half my life out here in Hollywood at a time when it was important for my boy, who is five, to have his father around more."

He sold his home outside New York and the family is here now in a rented house.

Many New Shows

The approaching season in network television may not be the most exciting in history, but from an industry viewpoint, it is a safe one. There will be about three times as many new half-hour shows in the prime-time network schedules as new hour-long shows. It is less costly and infinitely less disruptive to remove a faltering half-hour entry, costing between $50,000 and $65,000 per episode, from a lineup than to rip open a huge hole with the elimination of a 60-minute failure costing more than $100,000 per show.

All three networks had some bitter, expensive programming lessons last season — ABC with "The Jerry Lewis Show," CBS with "The Judy Garland Show," and NBC with "Espionage."

The National Association of Broadcasters' code which limits the time allowed for commercials has been temporarily liberalized so that stations can use paid political advertisements without counting them as commercial time. At least CBS will stick to its usual strict house rules and include political plugs with the usual run of soap, potato chips and beer pitches, for which viewers will undoubtedly be grateful.

Memberships Pour In For Mental Health

Membership subscriptions to Ulster County Association for Mental Health, from persons all over Ulster County, continue to be received by Miss Katherine M. Murphy, R.N., chairman of the membership committee of Association.

While Mrs. Diana M. Geiger, the part-time executive secretary of the Association is on vacations for the remainder of the month and through Labor Day, arrangements have been made with the post office for all Association mail to be forwarded to Miss Murphy's residence.

The Association office on East O'Reilly Street, will re-open on Tuesday, Sept. 8, and will resume the part-time schedule of days. Middletown After-Care Clinic will be held as usual at 27 East O'Reilly Street on Thurs. Sept. 3.

Congress Pushes Ahead With Aim at Adjourning on Aug. 22

By EDMOND LEBRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress pushes ahead today in a drive to clear the legislative decks and adjourn by the end of next week.

The target date for adjournment is Aug. 22 — two days before the Democratic National Convention opens in Atlantic City, N.J.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Sunday night in a television-radio interview (NBC-Met The Press) that he still hopes for adjournment by the 22nd, but added "I wouldn't bet on it."

If Congress doesn't finish its work by that date, he said, it will be back on the job after the convention.

Praises Two Sides

Mansfield said "I am very proud of what this Congress and its predecessor have done." Asked about help from the Republican side of the aisle, he said "it has been very significant and much of the legislation which we've passed would not have been possible without Republican support."

He said Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has "placed his country ahead of his party" and contributed particularly in foreign affairs.

Mansfield said he thought Dirksen's proposal to delay reapportionment of state legislatures stands a good chance of Senate passage.

The Democratic leader said he had been in touch with Dirksen and legal advisers over the weekend trying to work out another way to ease the effects of the Supreme Court's decision of last June 15 which said each legislative district must be "substantially equal" in population. It said both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on a "one person, one vote formula."

Bill on Taking Time

Dirksen in turn came up with a bill that would delay reapportionment for two years for some states, four years for others. He said he would include it as a rider on the foreign aid authorization bill. Mansfield said he doesn't believe Dirksen's approach on the delay "is the correct one" and "may well turn out to be unconstitutional."

While the Senate considers its foreign aid debate today, the House takes up a bill to liberalize veterans' pension laws.

The House may tackle a housing bill about the middle of the week. The measure would extend the present public housing program for another year and increase it by 35,000 housing units.

The House also is scheduled this week to decide whether to try working out a compromise on a Senate-passed measure to set strict quotas on imported meat. The administration, fearful of the effect on U.S. negotiations for freer access to European markets for agricultural products, opposes the quota plan.

Supporters of a health care plan for the aged under Social Security continue to press their case before the Senate Finance Committee. There will be an effort to attach this program to the pending Social Security bill. But any such move, even if successful in the Senate, would face formidable opposition from House conferees.

The Senate also has on its calendar some $7 billion in appropriation bills for agricultural programs and military construction and the program to attack the economic problems of the Appalachian area.

As Paraphrased by Barry: Whole-Hearted Devotion

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, in a bid for party unity, says the "extremism" he advocated in defense of liberty could be paraphrased as "whole-hearted devotion" to the cause of liberty.

The Republican presidential candidate, in his July 16 speech accepting the nomination, said: "I would remind you that extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice. And let me remind you also that moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

Various prominent Republicans have urged the Arizona senator to elaborate on his use of the word "extremism."

In a letter to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, which Nixon made public Sunday, Goldwater said: "If I were to paraphrase the two sentences in question in the context in which I uttered them I would do it by saying that wholehearted devotion to liberty is unassailable and that half-hearted devotion to justice is indefensible."

This was the concluding paragraph of the 550-word letter written, Nixon said, in response to a letter he sent to Goldwater on Aug. 4.

Goldwater said that "misunderstandings must not be permitted to stand in the way of the unity of principle and purpose that is essential to a Republican victory in November."

Goldwater further wrote: "One portion of that correct context — and a most important one — was the paragraph immediately preceding the two sentences in question."

"In it I urged that we resist becoming captives of 'unthinking labels' — most of all those coined with divisive intent by our political opponents, by those who reject the body of principle by which we define our Republican heritage."

"In that context the sentences that followed were but examples," he said, adding: "They were examples of a quality of devotion to liberty and justice — 'firmness in the right,' as Lincoln put it — for which no Republican and, indeed, no American need apologize."

"It goes without saying that such devotion would not countenance illegal or improper means to achieve our proper goals. In short, as stated in another setting in our 1964 platform, 'goals must ever discipline means'."

Dear Abby . . . When — And If!!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl. I had two dates with an 18-year-old boy I've had a secret crush on for a long time. He was an hour late both times, but I didn't say anything. Then he took me to a big party, and wandered away. Nobody even knew who I was with. I had a horrible time. Later he took me to the Senior Prom and I never had a better time in my whole life. He said he had a great time, too, and I know he did. That was the last time I saw him. I heard that he is practically rushing another girl off her feet. I want him to know that after all I took from him, he can't treat me this way and get away with it, and if he were to call me up and BEG me for a date I would turn him down. How can I let him know how I feel?

"WHO NEEDS HIM?"

DEAR WHO: When he calls you up and BEGS you for a date, tell him!

DEAR ABBY: Our 22-year-old daughter has been married three times. The first marriage was a mistake because they were both too young. (The boy's mother had to sign for him.) They called it quits after a year. At 19 she married a 29-year-old Mamma's boy. That lasted two years. Her last husband was an older man. She had known him only a month and, after she married him, she found out that he hadn't been free to marry her. It was a mess! Now she is back home and has started to date. She has no special training and has never worked a day in her life. Her father supports her. I think under the circumstances, we should have some say about the company she keeps, don't you? Some of the characters she goes with would make you ill. She is our only child and we do love her. What can we do.

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: Tell your daughter she is old enough now to support herself, and that she must. She is still young enough to acquire "special training" if she wants it. If she will accept professional guidance, it would be worth the effort. It will have to come from outside, however, as she quit listening to you years ago.

DEAR ABBY: I recently married a man who likes dogs, but he can't stand cats. I have always had a cat. I love cats. At the present my mother is keeping my two cats, and when I told my husband I wanted to bring them home he said, "NO CATS in this house!" He says cats are for old maids and lonely widows who have nobody to love them. I don't agree with him on this, but don't want to make an issue of it. What can I do? This is my first marriage and his third.

LOVES CATS

DEAR LOVES: Leave your cats at your mother's and go to visit them when you get lonely. Your husband sounds tough enough to live with WITHOUT an excuse.

Woodstock Area Man Succumbs to Crash Injuries

Herman George Lau, 75, of Zena Road, West Hurley, became Ulster County's 23rd traffic fatality of the year when he died about 11:30 Saturday night in Benedictine Hospital, of injuries suffered in a two-car collision Thursday morning on Route 28 near Zena Road.

He had been in critical condition since his admittance into the hospital.

State Police said Lau suffered fractured ribs, cuts and a possible ruptured spleen. They said he drove his car from a service station into the eastbound lane on Route 28 about 10:35 a. m. Thursday when the vehicle was struck broadside by a car operated east on Route 28 by Mrs. Dorothy Evelyn Forni, 39, of 80 Grandview Avenue, Nanuet.

Mrs. Forni suffered upper lip cuts in the accident. Also injured were her daughter, Jane, 15, forehead contusions, and Lillian Veldti, 39, of Englewood Avenue, Nanuet, knee and scalp cuts.

Born in Brooklyn, Lau had been a riveter at the Brooklyn Navy Yard prior to his retirement.

Surviving is his wife, the former Josephine Desch.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday 1 p. m. at the Lasher Funeral Home Inc., Woodstock. The Rev. Norman Krapf, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, Woodstock, will officiate. Cremation will take place at the Gardner Earl Crematory, Troy. Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

LaRosa in New Play

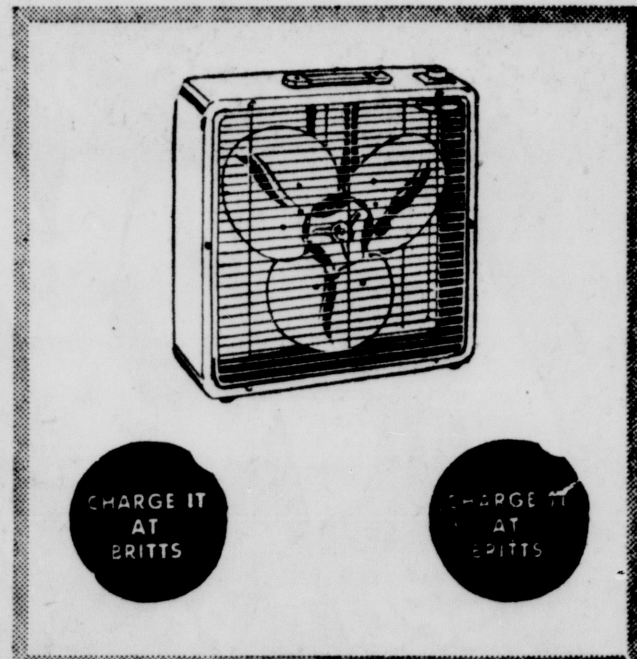

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Julius LaRosa goes off-Broadway next season in "Kiss Mama," a comedy by George Panetta "about an irrational family in a rational world, or vice-versa."

LaRosa previously made his acting bow in "Come Blow Your Horn" as a cast replacement on Broadway and has made several appearances in summer stock.

Costopoulos said he told the Turkish envoy that Greece hoped the attack on Polis was "due to the fact that not all Turkish forces have received orders of a cease-fire."

Greek Charges

Earlier, the Greek Cypriots charged that Turkish troops slipped ashore before dawn to aid the beleaguered Turkish Cypriot fishing village of Kokkina, 20 miles west of Polis.

Turkey and the U.N. Command on Cyprus denied there had been any landing. But the Cyprus government demanded another urgent meeting of the Security Council to consider what it called "perhaps a limited invasion."

Costopoulos said the Turkish garrison at Kokkina, the last Turkish Cypriot coastal stronghold, opened mortar fire on Greek Cypriot positions during the morning. But other sources said the situation there was quiet.

Turkey began the attacks last Friday to halt the Greek Cypriot advance on Kokkina.

Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot president, said his government will "fully respect" the Security Council appeal. He issued the statement after the latest Turkish raid and his government's report of the troop landing at Kokkina.

In Ankara, Kemal Stair, Turkey's deputy premier, insisted that the "Cyprus government claims are without any foundation."

The new Greek Cypriot complaint came in the midst of a lull in the fighting on the Mediterranean island. President Makarios offered to halt the Greek Cypriot advance on the Turkish Cypriot villages if Turkey stopped its air attacks.

Turkey agreed to call off the raids if there are no further Greek Cypriot attacks.

The Security Council implored all sides to observe an immediate cease-fire. Only the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia abstained in the 9-0 vote by which the council adopted a U.S.-British resolution calling for cessation of hostilities.

A U.N. source disclosed that Makarios had reacted favorably to an earlier cease-fire appeal by the council's president, Sivert A. Nielson of Norway.

Warships Still There

The Greek Cypriots announced the landing of Turkish men and materiel after the third day of attacks by Turkish jet fighters on the northwest coast. Turkish warships still are patrolling off Cyprus.

Sixty-four Turkish jets pounded Greek Cypriot positions with bombs, rockets and machinegun fire, as heavy fighting flared on the ground around the village of Kokkina, stronghold on the Cyprus coast.

The Greek Cypriots claimed they suffered about 300 casualties, including more than 33 dead, in the Turkish raids. Turkey said its planes fired only on military targets.

A Greek Cypriot statement said the Turkish soldiers were landed from two Turkish destroyers.

It called the alleged landings "continued incitement and encouragement of the Turkish (Cypriot) rebellion" and evidence of Turkey's disregard of the Security Council's peace appeals.

The U.N. police force said its observation team in the area had spotted one small unidentified vessel off Kokkina. The commander of the Swedish contingent, Col. Jonas Waern, said he saw "some activity" near the fishing village but couldn't learn the details.

ish activity in several capitals. President Johnson hurried back to Washington from a weekend at his Texas ranch and sent personal appeals to the heads of the Turkish, Greek and Cypriot governments.

The United States pressed for withdrawal of an estimated 5,000 to 7,000 Greek and Turkish soldiers who have quietly entered Cyprus since the dispute flared up last December over Makarios' attempts to end the legislative veto of the Turkish Cypriot minority.

A U.S. 6th Fleet carrier task force abruptly sailed from Naples Sunday night for an undisclosed destination. The force consisted of the carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, the guided missile cruiser Boston and six destroyers.

K Warns Turks

Soviet Premier Khrushchev warned the Turks that their military action could "only make the situation more acute, increase the conflict and increase the danger of war."

The Moscow press called Turkey a "pirate" and an "aggressor."

Khrushchev made no mention of a Greek Cypriot request for Soviet aid either in his note to Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu or similar messages to Makarios and U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant.

The Soviet leader told Makarios that the Soviet Union supported the Greek Cypriots and urged the withdrawal of all foreign troops from the island. To Thant, Khrushchev said: "At this moment, the U.N. must do its best to stop the bloodshed in Cyprus and thus avert the development of events dangerous to the cause of peace."

Greece, Turkey's eastern Mediterranean partner in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, sent a squadron of air force planes over Cyprus in a show of support for the Greek Cypriots.

Stavros Costopoulos, Greek foreign minister, said the planes did not open fire on Turkish Cypriots, but warned of Greek reprisals if the Turks continue their sorties.

"If America does not do something about the worsening Cyprus situation, Greece will be forced to interfere," Costopoulos said after an emergency conference with Norbert L. Aschultz, U.S. charge d'affaires in Athens. The U.S. official was summoned twice to Premier George Papandreu's office Sunday.

In Paris, NATO Secretary-General Manlio Brosio met separately with the Greek and Turkish delegates after the Greek government protested the Turkish attacks to the Atlantic alliance.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market kept a small gain in dull trading early this afternoon.

Fractional gains predominated among key stocks.

Coppers were about the strongest major group, advancing moderately in view of soaring copper commodity prices because of troubles in the Congo and Viet Nam as well as labor difficulties in the United States.

Fear of a major military involvement in Viet Nam seemed to be lessening, however. The Cyprus crisis seemed to have little effect on Wall Street except to add another note of caution.

Motors, rails and selected industrials kept the average in plus territory. Steels were unchanged to slightly lower after a gain at the start.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .6 at 314.9 with industrials up 1.3, rails up .2 and utilities off .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .56 at 829.72.

As the coppers moved up, Kennecott, Cerro and American Smelting added about a point each. Phelps Dodge and International Nickel rose fractionally. Anaconda was down a bit.

FORTY-TWO YEARS OF SERVICE — Two officials of Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association represent 42 years of service in the association this year as the annual convention ended in the Town of Rosendale Saturday afternoon. Frederick C. Harder, (left) president of Weiner Hose Company, Kingston, has served as association secretary for 22 years, and New Paltz Mayor Henry DuBois of New Paltz Fire Department has served 20 years as association treasurer. Both were reelected Friday night. Domenick Costantino of Highland was named president, succeeding Herbert F. Faurote of Bloomington. (Freeman photo).

Area Attorney Is Attending Parley In New York City

NORMAN KELLAR

Local attorney Norman Kellar of 14 Pearl Street is attending the 18th annual convention of the American Trial Lawyers' Association at the Hotel Americana in New York City.

The Kingston lawyer was chosen by the organization to serve on one of the more than 200 teaching panels presented at the convention.

The teaching panels discussed protection through law of American families and workers against harmful drugs, adulterated food, dangerous toys and defective machines.

Kellar not only participated in the teaching program, along with a distinguished faculty of 200 lawyer-professors but took a leading role in other personal injury law discussions.

Awards were presented to U.S. Senator Hubert Humphrey, chairman of the Government Operations Sub-Committee probing the drug field and to Dr. Frances O. Kelsey, chief of the Investigational Drug Branch, Bureau of Medicine in the Food and Drug Administration.

The American Trial Lawyers Association is composed of nearly 18,000 Americans who specialize in personal injury law. More than half of its members are currently attending the convention.

Powell Says Foes

The New York State race, the late President's younger brother is reported to be reconsidering, since President Johnson eliminated him from consideration as a vice presidential candidate.

Asked if he still supported Kennedy, Powell answered "I don't know." The Harlem congressman has long criticized Wagner for "ignoring" and "discriminating against" Negroes in city and state jobs appointments.

The anti-Wagner group hopes its roughly 400 votes will swing the senatorial nomination convention at Manhattan Center Sept. 1. There will be 1,145 delegates. A candidate needs 582 votes to win.

Wagner has never said he is opposed to a Kennedy nomination, but he has not given the attorney general a public commitment of support.

Kennedy met with the mayor at Gracie Mansion Friday morning, but there was no disclosure of what took place.

Low-Priced Stocks
Not Necessarily Cheap

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—"I want to speculate with $1,000. I am not interested in yield, only in growth, and I would like to buy stocks under $2.00 a share. What do you suggest?" S. S.

A—I suggest that you alter your thinking a little.

One of the most common and dangerous delusions I encounter is that very low-priced stocks are necessarily cheap. There are few issues now selling below $2.00 that are not in that range because their quality is poor and their risk high. I beg you not to get speculation confused with growth.

When you buy growth, you expect over a period of time a steady advance in price which is achieved by rising earnings and dividends. I know of no good speculative or growth stock in the price range you designate.

My mail is full of requests from worried investors who bought very low-priced stocks, have suffered severe losses, and now wonder what to do about them.

Q—"We are retired and own American Telephone, Worthington and Illinois Central Industries. We have $35,000 in savings and own $10,000 in Treasury 5's due this month. How would you suggest that we invest the proceeds of the Treasury 5's? Our objective is income. We would also welcome your opinion on the stocks we hold." E. N.

A—Your present holdings are generally satisfactory, I am pleased to say.

Worthington Corporation is a cyclical stock. Earnings reached a peak in 1957 and the trend has since been generally downward. I would switch this issue into Continental Can which would give you a higher yield and, in my opinion, greater stability.

Illinois Central Industries, consisting mainly of 93-per-cent control of the railroad, is speculative but in view of the current strength of the rails—and merger possibilities—I would hold.

I suggest that, with the proceeds of your Magic 5's, you buy an equal amount of Treasury 4 1/2's due May 1974, now yielding 4.19 per cent.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

sioner, George K. Wyman, who was appointed by the board.

Later that year, a Moreland Act Commission set up by Rockefeller to study welfare operations, recommended that the governor have a more direct voice in administration of welfare programs. It was the commission that first proposed combining the chairman's and the commissioner's jobs.

Jones, 50, was appointed to the board by Rockefeller in 1959 and became vice chairman in 1962. Besides practicing law, he is a director of the Utica Radiator Corp. and has served for seven years as chancellor of the Episcopal Diocese of Central New York. He resides in the Utica suburb of New Hartford.

The appointments and reappointments require confirmation by the state Senate, but the members may serve a maximum of two years. The next regular session of the Legislature convenes in January.

Saving Time...

In other words, a person living in the central time subzone would find that during the summer months he would use the term, Eastern standard time.

5. The bill would require all federal agencies, common carriers, and communications by wire or radio to use this time system. It is assumed that this would persuade all local communities to adopt the new system.

Confusing time situation with these provisions:

1. The United States, except for Alaska and Hawaii, would be divided as now into four zones: Eastern, central, mountain, and Pacific. In addition, a new Atlantic zone would be created. This would be off the East Coast and not over any mainland at all.

2. To save daylight in warm summer months, the Interstate Commerce Commission would create a single subzone in each regular zone. This zone would be a geographic whole and would connect with the full zone to the east.

3. Daylight saving time would begin for all subzones on the last Sunday in April and end on the last Sunday in October.

4. It would not be called daylight saving time at all. Instead, the ICC would assign each subzone to the full zone to the East.

He did not say what form the discussion might take, but he emphasized that "honesty compels" him to say Christianity is the "one true religion."

Referring to atheism, the Pope said the denial of God is "utterly erroneous" and "we shall therefore resist with all our strength the assaults of this denial."

Common Goals

The Pope's words on Christian unity did not represent a change of Roman Catholic attitude. He always has maintained that basic Church doctrine cannot be compromised, but he said in the encyclical the Church "will not cease to go forward with a patience and consideration" in the cause for Christian unity.

"Let us stress what we have in common rather than what divides us," he said. "On many points of difference, tradition, spirituality, canon law and worship, we are ready to study how we can satisfy the legitimate desires of our Christian brothers still separated from us."

Paul said some non-Catholic Christians believed Church reunion would be possible "if it were not for the primacy of the Pope."

He added: "We beg the separated brethren to consider the inconsistency of this position. Without the Pope, the Catholic Church would no longer be Catholic. Without the supreme, efficacious and decisive pastoral office of Peter the unity of the Church of Christ would utterly collapse."

"The apostle's art is a risky one, the desire to come together as brothers must not lead to a watering-down or subtracting from the truth."

Segni Is Too Ill To Execute Duties As Italian Chief

ROME (AP) — The Italian Senate declared ailing President Antonio Segni incapacitated today and named Senate President Cesare Merzagora to take over his duties. A medical bulletin said Segni was gravely ill.

The transfer of authority to the 66-year-old Senate president, under provision of the Italian Constitution, was announced in the government's official Gazette 2 1/2 hours after attending physicians made public the gravity of Segni's condition. He was felled by a cerebral stroke three days ago. He is partly paralyzed and his speech has been impeded.

A medical bulletin this morning was the first official announcement that the 73-year-old president had been left partly paralyzed by the stroke.

Segni was elected May 6, 1962, for a 7-year term. The Italian presidency is largely a ceremonial post.

Vinson's View on November

Will South Help Enemy Or Punish Old Friend?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big question in this year's presidential race is whether the South will "reward a political enemy and punish an old friend," Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., says.

In a statement released in Washington Sunday, Vinson said this would be the case if the South supports Sen. Barry Goldwater and opposes President Johnson.

He said the question is whether the South will be "blinded by its anger and frustration of the moment regarding its civil rights problems."

Vinson said there have been years "that organized agitators and do-gooder groups have been pushing the current civil rights crisis upon the South."

Johnson and Goldwater have voting records over these years, he said, "and both are poised today in roles almost exactly opposite their official records. Why?"

He said Johnson followed the course of all other Southerners "in attempting to stem the storm," while he said Goldwater "followed the opposite course" and "repeatedly identified himself with proponents for civil rights."

Contending that Goldwater has reversed himself, he asked, "Can it be purely for political expediency?"

Johnson, as a Southerner, "espoused the cause of the South," said Vinson, while "Lyndon Johnson, as President, had no other choice but to reflect the will of a majority of the nation."

"Agony of the moment may well cause Southerners to forget the now more remote agonies of recent years, but this lapse of memory will not change the facts."

Area Attorney Is Attending Parley In New York City

NORMAN KELLAR

Local attorney Norman Kellar of 14 Pearl Street is attending the 18th annual convention of the American Trial Lawyers' Association at the Hotel Americana in New York City.

The Kingston lawyer was chosen by the organization to serve on one of the more than 200 teaching panels presented at the convention.

The teaching panels discussed protection through law of American families and workers against harmful drugs, adulterated food, dangerous toys and defective machines.

Kellar not only participated in the teaching program, along with a distinguished faculty of 200 lawyer-professors but took a leading role in other personal injury law discussions.

Awards were presented to U.S. Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, chairman of the Government Operations Sub-Committee probing the drug field and to Dr. Frances O. Kelsey, chief of the Investigational Drug Branch, Bureau of Medicine in the Food and Drug Administration.

Powell Says Foes

The New York State race. The late President's younger brother is reported to be reconsidering, since President Johnson eliminated him from consideration as a vice presidential candidate.

Asked if he still supported Kennedy, Powell answered "I don't know." The Harlem congressman has long criticized Wagner for "ignoring" and "discriminating against" Negroes in city and state jobs appointments.

The anti-Wagner group hopes its roughly 400 votes will swing the senatorial nomination convention at Manhattan Center Sept. 1. There will be 1,145 delegates. A candidate needs 583 votes to win.

Wagner has never said he is opposed to a Kennedy nomination, but he has not given the attorney general a public commitment of support.

Kennedy met with the mayor at Grace Mansion Friday morning, but there was no disclosure of what took place.

Pope Plans...

ferred to help in international disputes, without specifically saying what form such aid might take.

In the chapter on awareness, Pope Paul said, "It is a duty today for the Church to deepen the awareness that she must have of herself, of the treasure of truth of which she is heir and custodian and of her mission in the world."

Self-Reflection

He said the Church must "reflect on herself" because of the scientific, technical, social, philosophical and currents in the world.

"Men committed to the Church are greatly influenced by the climate of the world; so much so that a danger bordering almost on vertiginous confusion and bewilderment can shake the Church's very foundations and lead men to embrace most bizarre ways of thinking."

The chapter on reform noted that it was up to the Ecumenical Council to propose changes in canon law, to render the Church "spotless and youthful."

Outlines Reform

Pope Paul said the term reform should not be used only "in the sense of change, but of a stronger determination to preserve the characteristic features which Christ has impressed on the Church."

But he added: "Let us not deceive ourselves into thinking that the edifice of the Church should be reduced to its early minimal proportions as if they alone were true and good."

It was in the third chapter, on dialogue, that the Pope discussed communism, atheism, Christian unity and the possibility of a joint defense of common ideals with non-Christians.

He spoke of the Jews, the Moslems and "the followers of the great Afro-Asiatic (sic) religions," and added:

Notes Religious Unity

"We recognize and respect the moral and spiritual values of the various non-Christian religions, and we desire to join with them in promoting and defending common ideals of religious liberty, human brotherhood, good culture, social welfare and civil order."

"For our part, we are ready to enter into discussion on these common ideals, and will not fail to take the initiative where our offer of discussion in genuine mutual respect, would be well received."

He did not say what form the discussion might take, but he emphasized that "honesty compels" him to say Christianity is the "one true religion."

Referring to atheism, the Pope said the denial of God is "utterly erroneous" and "we shall therefore resist with all our strength the assaults of this denial."

Common Goals

The Pope's words on Christian unity did not represent a change of Roman Catholic attitude. He always has maintained that basic Church doctrine cannot be compromised, but he said in the encyclical the Church "will not cease to go forward with a patience and consideration" in the cause for Christian unity.

"Let us stress what we have in common rather than what divides us," he said. "On many points of difference, tradition, spirituality, canon law and worship, we are ready to study how we can satisfy the legitimate desires of our Christian brothers still separated from us."

Paul said some non-Catholic Christians believed Church reunion would be possible "if it were not for the primacy of the Pope."

He added: "We beg the separated brethren to consider the inconsistency of this position. Without the Pope, the Catholic Church would no longer be Catholic. Without the supreme, efficacious and decisive pastoral office of Peter the unity of the Church of Christ would utterly collapse."

"The apostle's art is a risky one, the desire to come together as brothers must not lead to a watering-down or subtracting from the truth."

Low-Priced Stocks
Not Necessarily Cheap

Q—"I want to speculate with $1,000. I am not interested in yield, only in growth, and I would like to buy stocks under $2.00 a share. What do you suggest?" S. S.

A—I suggest that you alter your thinking a little.

One of the most common and dangerous delusions I encounter is that very low-priced stocks are necessarily cheap. There are few issues now selling below $2.00 that are not in that range because their quality is poor and their risk high. I beg you not to get speculation confused with growth.

When you buy growth, you expect over a period of time a steady advance in price which is achieved by rising earnings and dividends. I know of no good speculative or growth stock in the price range you designate.

My mail is full of requests from worried investors who bought very low-priced stocks, have suffered severe losses, and now wonder what to do about them.

Q—"We are retired and own American Telephone, Worthington and Illinois Central Industries. We have $35,000 in savings and own $10,000 in Treasury 5's due this month. How would you suggest that we invest the proceeds of the Treasury 5's? Our objective is income. We would also welcome your opinion on the stocks we hold." E. N.

A—Your present holdings are generally satisfactory, I am pleased to say.

Worthington Corporation is a cyclical stock. Earnings reached a peak in 1957 and the trend has since been generally downward. I would switch this issue into Continental Can which would give you a higher yield and, in my opinion, greater stability.

Illinois Central Industries, consisting mainly of 93-per-cent control of the railroad, is speculative but in view of the current strength of the rails—and merger possibilities—I would hold.

I suggest that, with the proceeds of your Magic 5's, you buy an equal amount of Treasury 4 1/2's due May 1974, now yielding 4.19 per cent.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Later that year, a Moreland Act Commission set up by Rockefeller to study welfare operations, recommended that the governor have a more direct voice in administration of welfare programs. It was the commission that first proposed combining the chairman's and the commissioner's jobs.

Jones, 50, was appointed to the board by Rockefeller in 1959 and became vice chairman in 1962. Besides practicing law, he is a director of the Utica Radiator Corp. and has served for seven years as chancellor of the Episcopal Diocese of Central New York. The appointments and reappointments require confirmation by the state Senate, but the members may serve meanwhile. The next regular session of the Legislature convenes in January.

Saving Time...

In other words, a person living in the central time subzone would find that during the summer months he would use the time, Eastern standard time.

5. The bill would require all federal agencies, common carriers, and communications by wire or radio to use this time system. It is assumed that this would persuade all local communities to adopt the new system.

confusing time situation with these provisions:

1. The United States, except for Alaska and Hawaii, would be divided as now into four zones: Eastern, central, mountain, and Pacific. In addition, a new Atlantic zone would be created. This would be off the East Coast and not over any mainland at all.

2. To save daylight in warm summer months, the Interstate Commerce Commission would create a single subzone in each regular zone. This zone would be a geographic whole and would connect with the full zone to the east.

3. Daylight saving time would begin for all subzones on the last Sunday in April and end on the last Sunday in October.

4. It would not be called daylight saving time at all. Instead, the ICC would assign each subzone to the full zone to the East.

NEW YORK (AP) — Many an executive has been taking bows for holding to a conservative policy that has kept the business upswing from developing dangerous excesses. But maybe it's a machine that should be taking them for him.

Gadgets Really Help

Some of these gadgets can cut to minutes the supply and shipping processes that used to take days. And that, say the computer's friends, is a chief reason industry has amazed the experts by holding stocks to a minimum when prosperity was bursting out all over. Customers can find out faster what they need and get it faster, so cumbersome inventories are out of style.

A flour company, for example, links its 128 plants and branch offices with a computer system that each night gathers and processes all the flour company's information. In the morning it offers a full analysis of sales and inventory — both how much and where.

At the same time a grocery store chain uses its own computer network to check stocks in all outlets. This is punched out and fed directly into the flour company's system. Whatever one of the chain store's outlets needs of the producer's products can be supplied at once to the closest of the chain's 22 warehouses from the flour company's nearest source. That cuts the need for huge stocks and log shipping-lead times.

Economists first noted that inventories actually dropped in the early months of this year and then rose only modestly during the spring industrial spurt.

Now the Department of Commerce reports that in June total factory stocks actually slipped by $150 million, with the decline concentrated in finished goods. The department says business is "continuing a very cautious inventory policy."

Top Service

True, but here is an example of how a machine can follow that policy and customers still be served more quickly than ever.

Once it took three to five days and much clerical work to process an order for an electric motor from a Texas district office through the Westinghouse Electric's Pittsburgh base. Now in just 4½ minutes the Texas branch can do this: order the motor by teletype through its computer center near Pittsburgh; have the motor located, the inventory record adjusted, word sent to a designated factory to restock; ascertain the list price, trade discount and the state sales tax; have an invoice typed and an order sent to the right warehouse by wire. This order comes off the teletype with bill of lading, labels already addressed for the carton and the location of the stock bin in which the motor will be found.

Whether it is computers or top executive judgment, if inventories stay conservative in relation to sales, many of the pulse-takers of the present business expansion will be happy.

Partner Misses an Obvious Signal

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When Henley wrote, "I am the captain of my fate," he could not have been thinking of some unfortunate bridge player, whose partner insists on taking full control of the bidding and the play.

Such a partner is particularly annoying to me because I have a slight case of the control habit myself.

Thus, I opened the queen of hearts instead of the three spot against South's three diamond contract. My queen held the trick and I shifted to the deuce of clubs. My partner won with the ace, and promptly cashed his ace and king of hearts.

Then he led a fourth heart. South discarded a club and, while I ruffed valiantly with the eight spot and forced dummy to overruff with the ace, nothing good came of it. South drew trumps and ran off the rest of the tricks with dummy's spade suit.

Three diamonds bid and made against you isn't much of a tragedy at rubber bridge, but the game was duplicate and the difference between our score of minus 110 and the possible score of plus 200 was the difference

East had a reason for leading the fourth heart. He pointed out that if I had held the jack of diamonds and not the king of clubs, his play would have beaten the hand while a club return would have allowed South to make his contract. It had never occurred to him that my shift to the deuce of clubs surely indicated possession of a high club.

Swim and Survive

Drowning happens in a variety of ways—none of them good. Of course, the poets maintain that a fellow can drown in his own troubles (no good either), or in his ladylove's eyes (better—in fact, not bad.) On a more mundane level, it's even possible to drown in the bathtub.

But the kind of drowning that packs the greatest hazard is the kind that's unfortunately in high season right now. With a substantial slice of summer weather still ahead, it's worth reviewing those tried-and-true rules for water safety that we all know by heart and can so easily forget to remember: (1) Never swim alone. (2) Pick a place you know is safe, preferably a lifeguards habitat. (3) Overheated? Overfed or recently refilled? Postpone that swim! (4) If you dive, make sure the water is plenty deep and free of hidden objects. (5) Never overestimate the power of your muscles—and lungs. In short, don't go out too far!

Now that you're primed for aquatic survival, how about that other fellow—the luckless one who gets himself into trouble? No discussion of water safety is complete without a review of latest techniques in artificial respiration.

To restore breathing in a drowned or near-drowned person, place the victim on his back and clear his mouth of possible debris. Then tilt his head back and push or pull his jaw so that it juts outward. This keeps the tongue from closing the air passage.

Next, pinch his nostrils shut, mouth and breathe hard at the rate of about 12 breaths a minute. For a child, shallower breaths should be taken at a faster rate—about 20 breaths a minute. For finicky folks, a cloth passage of air. If results are can be placed between mouths without greatly affecting the slow in appearing, don't give up. Many a life has been saved by persistent effort. Keep trying until breath returns, or until death has been pronounced by a doctor or is evident beyond doubt.

Health for All

Swim and Survive

Drowning happens in a variety of ways—none of them good. Of course, the poets maintain that a fellow can drown in his own troubles (no good either), or in his ladylove's eyes (better—in fact, not bad.) On a more mundane level, it's even possible to drown in the bathtub.

But the kind of drowning that packs the greatest hazard is the kind that's unfortunately in high season right now. With a substantial slice of summer weather still ahead, it's worth reviewing those tried-and-true rules for water safety that we all know by heart and can so easily forget to remember: (1) Never swim alone. (2) Pick a place you know is safe, preferably a lifeguards habitat. (3) Overheat? Overheated? Overheated? Overheated? Postpone that swim! (4) If you dive, make sure the water is plenty deep and free of hidden objects. (5) Never overestimate the power of your muscles—and lungs. In short, don't go out too far!

Now that you're primed for aquatic survival, how about that other fellow—the luckless one who gets himself into trouble? No discussion of water safety is complete without a review of latest techniques in artificial respiration.

To restore breathing in a drowned or near-drowned person, place the victim on his back and clear his mouth of possible debris. Then tilt his head back and push or pull his jaw so that it juts outward. This keeps the tongue from closing the air passage.

Next, pinch his nostrils shut. mouth and breathe hard at the rate of about 12 breaths a minute. For a child, shallower breaths should be taken at a faster rate—about 20 breaths a minute. For finicky folks, a cloth passage of air. If results are can be placed between mouths without greatly affecting the slow in appearing, don't give up. Many a life has been saved by persistent effort. Keep trying until breath returns, or until death has been pronounced by a doctor or is evident beyond doubt.

Ellery Sonking, Joseph Mauceri Are Wed In Ceremony at St. Patrick's Cathedral

Miss Ellery Gade Sonking, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lester A. Sonking of Saugerties, exchanged marriage vows Sunday with Joseph M. Mauceri son of Dr. and Mrs. Anthony L. Mauceri of Kingston and Port Ewen. The ceremony took place at St. Faith, Hope and Charity Chapel in St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City. The Rev. John Donahue officiated.

The bride is a graduate of the Dana Hall School in Wellesley, Mass. and attended Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. She is the granddaughter of the late Samuel Gade, president of the American Valve Co. of Coxsackie, N. Y.

The bridegroom is a June cum laude graduate of St. Michael's College where he was a member of Alpha Epsilon Delta, the pre-med honor fraternity. He will attend the Tulane University Medical School, New Orleans, La. in the fall.

After a wedding trip to Nassau, the couple will reside in New Orleans.

ALWAYS TIP HOTEL CHAMBERMAID

Q: When staying just one night in a hotel, is it necessary to tip the chambermaid? If so, how much should be given?

A: The chambermaid is given a tip whether you stay one night or several. For an overnight stay in a first-class hotel, she is given fifty cents; in a small inexpensive hotel, twenty-five cents.

To Meet Mr. and Mrs.

Q: I received an invitation to a reception that is being given for a recent bride and her husband. The invitation reads: "To meet Mr. and Mrs. John Jones." I know the bride and groom quite well as do most of the guests who have been invited to this reception. Wasn't this wording strange considering everyone has already met the bride and groom?

A: "To meet" is the correct as well as conventional wording for an invitation to a reception being given in honor of someone whether the guest of honor is a stranger or intimate friend of those being invited.

Inviting Doctor to Daughter's Wedding

Q: Would it be proper to invite our family doctor and his wife to our daughter's wedding? We do not know the doctor or his wife socially, but he has been exceptionally kind of us and has taken care of our daughter since she was a baby. My husband seems to think it would be presumptuous for us to invite them.

A: As you do not know the doctor or his wife socially, I agree with your husband that it would be presumptuous to invite them to your daughter's wedding.

SINGS WITH DORSEY BAND — The famous Tommy Dorsey band, under the baton of Sam Donahue, provides the backdrop for Frank Sinatra Jr. Both the band and the young

Frank Sinatra Jr., Dorsey Band Will Headline IBM Club Show Here Aug. 30

Frank Sinatra Jr., will headline the Kingston IBM Club's star studded variety show at the Community Theatre, Sunday, Aug. 30, starting at 7:30 p. m.

In his first local appearance with the Tommy Dorsey orchestra, under the direction of Sam

Donahue, Frank Jr. will recreate some of the musical history made popular by his famous dad one generation ago.

The show, featuring Helen Forrest, the Pied Pipers and the instrumentalists of Charlie Shaver on trumpet and Larry O'Brien on trombone is open to the public.

The demand for the music of Tommy Dorsey has never waned since his passing. The orchestra will recreate the never-to-be-forgotten music of "the sentimental gentleman." Some old tunes are apt to sound quite familiar when the Dorsey Orchestra accompanies its new featured vocalist.

The Pied Pipers, a singing group consisting of Clark Yocum, Lee Gotch, Ralph Brewster and Jennie McManus will recreate many of their brilliant vocal stylings.

The orchestra will be playing many of the Dorsey-Sinatra-Pied Piper songs made famous in the 40's.

Sam Donahue "returned to the fold" as leader of the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra in 1961. His close and long association with Dorsey as an arranger, saxophone soloist and assistant leader make it possible for Sam, more so than any other person, to maintain the great standards set by Tommy Dorsey.

Tickets may be purchased by mailing checks directly to the Kingston IBM Club Office, Neighborhood Road, Kingston. All checks should be made payable to the Kingston IBM Club.

The Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Another child and our two boys, 7 and 10, recently cracked a window in the other boy's garage. Our younger son stayed with the other boy while he confessed what they'd done to his mother; but our older one came home, never saying a word about it. It was only by accident that we found out that he had been involved. His father and I are worried about this attitude. When he and his brother get into something, it's always the little one who has to admit it for both of them.

ANSWER: You regard him as "sneaky," don't you? Your contempt is not going to endow him with courage you know. So I remind you that it is you who have taught him that younger children can get away with misbehavior for which older children are reproached and punished.

As your older son, he has learned that you will excuse his little brother for all kinds of things from spilling milk to smearing jam on the upholstery which you have not excused for him. Not unnaturally, when he and his younger brother get involved in behavior which he knows will arouse your reproach, he removes his reproachable olderness from the situation—and lets indulgent youngness take the gaff.

I am not excusing your son. What I'm trying to do is to arouse your awareness of your contribution to his conviction that youngness is an especially privileged state. I want to dissolve the contempt you feel for his "sneakiness" so that it won't be conveyed to him when you discuss his behavior with him. If it is, he's going to get sneakier and sneakier.

Because he's already sad enough that you've found him disappointing so much more often than you've found his younger brother.

How often during his early years of experience as a new brother did you say to him things like this: "Don't push Buddy for grabbing your crayons. He's too young to know what he's doing. . . . Buddy isn't old enough to know he shouldn't run across the street but you are. . . . You're too old to want to sit on my lap like a baby. . . ."

What your older son's "sneakiness" tells you is that you have demanded more maturity from him than he was able to deliver to you. You have made him so ashamed of his failures to produce a "big" boy's superior behavior that he can't confess his inferior behavior. You have asked for too much too soon. Teachers Attend Training Program At Penn State Univ.

University Park, Pa., Aug. 8—Thirty-eight teachers from colleges, universities, and technical institutes today completed a training program in applied mathematics and process engineering at The Pennsylvania State University.

The program, planned specifically for technical institute teachers of manufacturing processes and design, was sponsored with a grant of $36,900 from the National Science Foundation.

Benjamin W. Niebel, professor and head of the department of industrial engineering at Penn State, directed the five-week program.

Among those attending: Walter Hopkins of 139 Wall Street, this city, teacher at Ulster County Community College.

LOCAL ART EXHIBIT—Opening today is a two-man show of paintings by (l-r) Robert L. Strickland of Kingston and John P. McEntee of Lake Katrine. The exhibit is scheduled through August 22 at Britt's community room. Mr. McEntee is the 1962 winner of the International Leukemia Society Award, Troy, N. Y. He also had a one-man show in Troy and received the 1964 Assemblyman Douglas Hudson award. Self-employed in the parts business, Mr. McEntee says painting is his hobby. He paints in oils. Mr. Strickland, who is lighting engineer for the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, started painting in oils as a hobby several years ago. Using local scenes, his "Little Beaverkill" won first prize at the annual show given in the Kingston Savings Bank. As a member of the Ulster County Art Association, Strickland's paintings have been sold to many local and out-of-town art lovers. Public is invited to view the current show. There is no admission charge. (Freeman photo)

Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent, presents the following article on sewing on terry:

This is an ideal time to make a terry cloth shift. It is cool, absorbent, and comfortable, either over a bathing suit for beach wear or for casual lounging on the patio. You'll find a large stock of this fabric in most stores in a wide variety of gay prints as well as in solid colors and stripes.

When choosing a shift pattern, it would be best to avoid one which requires a zipper closing. A loose fitting slip-on style with either a boat, scoop, or V neckline would be suitable, or a more fitted style which can be closed with buttons or frogs.

A few suggestions for sewing on terry will make the task much easier. Cut with straight shears; cutting with pinking shears cuts into more loops and causes excessive fraying. Stay stitch raw edges to prevent stretching. Seams require special attention to prevent raveling. Suitable finishes would be: ZIG ZAG MACHINE FINISH—for heavy and medium weight fabrics easily raveled. Use zig zag stitch to reinforce each edge. BOUND EDGE FINISH—for heavy, bulky, easily-frayed fabrics. Press open edge with bias seam binding. SELF-BOUND SEAM—trim one edge of a plain-stitched seam to 1/4 inch. Turn under 1/4 inch on remaining edge and slip-stitch over seam with loose stitches. FRENCH SEAM—good for sheer fabrics, unsuitable for curves. Stitch 1/2 inch seam placing wrong sides of fabric together. On inside, crease along seam and stitch 1/4 inch from crease, enclosing seam. FLAT-FELL SEAM—handstitched for bulky reversible fabrics. Sew a plain seam (backstitch) placing right sides of fabric together. Trim one edge to 1/2 inch. Turn under remaining edge, crease and slip-stitch flat over trimmed edge.

The next NCSY meeting will be a splash party at the home of Mrs. M. J. Fletcher, Ringtop Road, Tuesday, 7:30 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Art Association Plans Exhibition

The Ulster County Art Association will hold its 17th annual outdoor exhibit on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 15 and 16 on the Academy Green. The exhibit will be open at 11 a. m. Approximately 100 paintings will be shown.

Organized in August 1947 by the late Alexander (Pop) Fuhr-man, the Association is open to all artists.

Objective of the group is to: " . . . encourage the members to create, to bring the importance of fine art to the public, to find an outlet to sell the works of its members, and to support various art activities. All artists are eligible for membership."

2 Hurt In Mishaps Near Ellenville

Two passengers were injured and a motorist was cited for traffic violations in two week-end highway accidents investigated by State Police at Ellenville.

Roberta Lachman, 25, of Jamaica, L. I., suffered a neck injury in a two-car mishap about 9:15 Sunday night on Route 52 about six miles west of Ellenville in the Town of Wawarsing. Troopers said she was a passenger in a car driven west on Rt. 52 by Lewis B. Lachman, 28, same address, which was struck in the rear by a car driven in the same direction by Harold J. Garlinghouse Jr., 23, of Ellenville.

Trooper R. J. Dempsey investigated.

Harvey S. Schechtman, 19, of Brooklyn, was issued summonses for failure to keep right and driving with faulty equipment after a two-car collision about 2:15 Sunday morning on Rt. 52 at the Tamarack Rd. intersection, Town of Wawarsing.

Trooper W. E. Hubert said David Lebowitz, 23, of Brooklyn, was driving east on Rt. 52 when Schechtman pulled out of Tamarack Rd. in front of the Lebowitz vehicle and struck it on the right side.

D. Weisberger, 17, of Brooklyn, a passenger in the Lebowitz car, suffered forehead contusions.

Herbert Hoover At 90

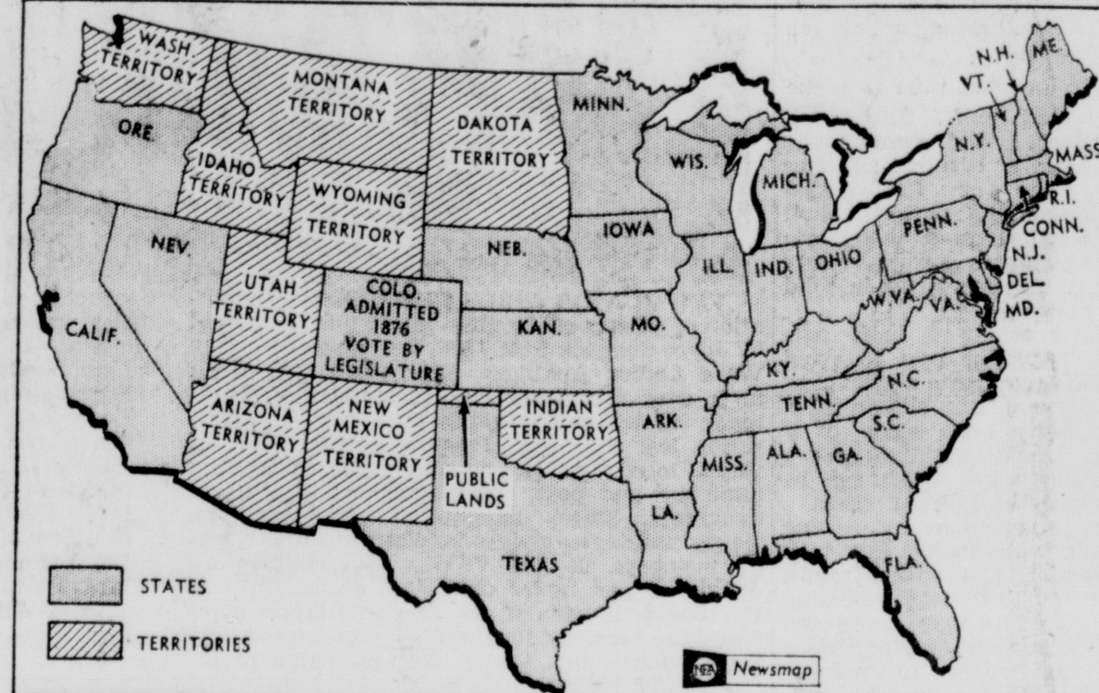

Ex-President's Lifetime Parallels Era Of Country's Greatest Development

Herbert Hoover, 31st President of the United States, is 90 years old. Historic highlights graphically underscore the great era he spans. It began when . . .

. . . this modest frame house in West Branch, Iowa, became the birthplace of the future engineer, humanitarian and president on August 10, 1874. The door at left leads to the room where Herbert Hoover was born. The times were aglow with the excitement of a multitude of pioneer enterprises by danger-braving men and women. The map . . .

. . . shows the United States as it was in 1876, the year that Colorado was admitted to the Union and Herbert Hoover was two years old. The Civil War had been over just 11 years and westward expansion was accelerating as new roads were carved through wilderness and the steel trails of railways pushed relentlessly across prairie and mountain and river toward the Pacific. Government land grants aided the expansion. In the White House . . .

. . . Ulysses S. Grant was in his second term as president. The "effete" East and the Wild West were growing closer and closer. Only five years previously . . .

. . . the two great segments of the country had been linked, ocean to ocean, in this historic joining of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railroads at Promontory, Utah. Meanwhile scientific progress helped bind the states and territories into a tightly cohesive entity. The telegraph had been improved and only a year before Hoover's birth . . .

. . . Prof. Alexander Graham Bell had produced the first successful electric telephone. But westward expansion was not entirely unimpeded. The U.S. Army was . . .

. . . still fighting Indians. But at the time Herbert Hoover was born, the great Sioux uprising, made famous by Custer's Last Stand, was still two years in the future. All these historic events seem in the dim past. Yet Herbert Hoover, man of that era, lives to see and applaud man's first reaching for the moon.

GOP Chairman Says Party Will Be Closing Ranks

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — The Republican state chairman says the GOP is broad enough to include the views of presidential nominee Barry Goldwater and Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, who has withheld his support from the national ticket.

Chairman Fred A. Young vowed Saturday night that his party would not be split by "sincere differences of opinion" but would "close ranks" to support national and state GOP candidates.

He commented in a speech at a testimonial dinner for Roy C. Ketcham, who retired as chairman of the Dutchess County Republican Committee.

Young said state leaders were committed to back the presidential ticket of Goldwater and Rep. William E. Miller. This was true, he said, "even though there exists among some of us sincere differences of opinion as to the adequacy of some planks in the national platform, and, possibly, to some facets . . . of the campaign as it affects our state."

VP Choice Should Be Made By More Than Only One Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American government, though a work of genius, still has points that are open to criticism.

One is the system for picking vice-presidential nominees.

It has come to be assumed that if the presidential nominee of a party wants to decide the choice of his running mate, he can do it.

The argument runs: A president is responsible for his administration, so it is only right that he pick his own team, certainly his No. 2 man.

But is it fair? Is it democratic for one man to make the decision, which could be fateful for the country? You can get an argument here.

No one doubts that President Johnson's choice will be the deciding one when the Democrats round out their ticket at Atlantic City this month.

Similarly, it was Barry Goldwater who did the deciding for the Republican convention at San Francisco, when the vice-presidential choice was William E. Miller.

And everybody knows how singlehandedly John F. Kennedy picked Lyndon B. Johnson to run with him in 1960.

A man running for a presidential nomination has it tough. He frequently has to go through great campaign agonies in a drive for votes — and spend a lot of money.

But to become the vice-presidential nominee nowadays, a man doesn't have to do anything but look good to one other man — the presidential nominee.

It hasn't always been this way. The nation's founding fathers set up a system whereby the runner-up for president became the vice president. That system was junked with the growth of political parties.

And it hasn't always been the case even in recent years that the presidential nominee had the whole say-so on the vice-presidential pick. In 1956 Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, left the selection up to the convention.

But for the most part, the presidential nominees more and more have called the vice-presidential shots.

In 1952, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower gave his blessing to Richard M. Nixon for second place on his Republican ticket. He stuck with Nixon again in 1956.

In 1932 John Nance Garner, loser to Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic presidential nomination, was handed the vice-presidential nomination.

Later Garner criticized Roosevelt's third term plans. Roosevelt dropped him and picked Henry A. Wallace for his running mate. Then, in 1944 FDR let Wallace go and in the end it was Harry S. Truman who was vice president when Roosevelt died.

Instance after instance could be cited of the chance, sometimes almost whimsical, ways in which vice presidents have been chosen.

Yet, eight men picked for vice president for one reason or another — sometimes by one man alone — have succeeded to the most powerful office in the land, not through merit but because the president died.

Thousands Mourn At Two Funerals For CR Workers

By HILMI TOROS

NEW YORK (AP) — Joined hand to hand and chanting "we shall overcome," thousands of white and Negro mourners paid tribute Sunday night to two white civil rights workers slain in Mississippi.

In separate services and at an outdoor rally, the young men were eulogized as "martyrs, compassionate and totally committed to nonviolence."

The FBI discovered the bodies of the New Yorkers — Andrew Goodman, 20, and Michael Schwerner, 24, — and James Chaney, 21, a Negro from Meridian, Miss., last Tuesday in a grave near Philadelphia, Miss.

The trio vanished near Philadelphia June 21 at the beginning of a summer drive to register Negroes to vote.

'Great Tragedy'

At the memorial service for Schwerner at the Community Church in Manhattan, James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said, "one of the tragedies of our world is that evil societies kill their conscience and gentleness."

Earlier, Farmer had announced the appointment of Rita Schwerner, Michael's widow, as a field secretary for CORE. She will help establish a memorial community center in Meridian, Miss., Farmer said.

Another speaker, John Lewis, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, said the "question is not who killed Mickey, James and Andy, but what killed them."

"Apathy," he said.

Sing Rights Chant

At the end of the memorial service, thousands inside and outside the hall joined hands and softly sang the civil rights theme: "We shall overcome, someday."

Earlier, at the funeral for Goodman at the Ethical Culture Society, Ralph Engelman, Goodman's college mate from Queens, said: "Andy taught us an old truth: None is free until all are free."

Leaving the service with Goodman's body in an oak casket, Mrs. Robert Goodman, his mother, clasped the hand of Chaney's mother, Fannie, who attended both services. Chaney was buried Friday in Meridian.

Do You Remember

By Sophie Miller

Some interesting items were loaned to me by Edmund T. Cloonan, superintendent of the Kingston Water Department. One is a 62 page book, report of the Board of Water Commissioners of the City of Kingston, for years 1901-2. There is a map of the City of Kingston Water works, showing pipe lines and reservoirs. No. 1, 2, and 3. I see the illustrations in the book are by R. Lionel De Lissar, who also did Picturesque Ulster, and Orange. This finely illustrated book came off the press of the Kingston Daily Freeman around 1902, good condition, paper not yellow, print excellent, and pictures sharp and clear. I have seen art books with the pictures not as clear.

In 1902 they wrote that the City of Kingston, had a population of some 25,000. I do not think it is much more than that in 1964, yet how things have changed, especially in cost of everything. It was said that in the first dozen years of the new City of Kingston, they had no water system. The inhabitants depended upon their wells for their drinking water, and the cisterns for water for their washing purposes. The Tannery Brook, which in 1902 was so small, that they wrote "the frogs have forsaken it," was used as the source of water for sprinkling the streets.

By a special election the voters voted against building a water system at municipal expenses, so a charter was granted to the Kingston Water Co., a private corporation which was organized March 12, 1883, with a capital stock of $300,000.

The first board of trustees of the Kingston Water Co. were James G. Lindsley (first Mayor of the City of Kingston), William Hutton, Charles Bruyn, Joseph M. Low, M. F. Reading, Rufus King and Charles E. Clark. They selected the Sawkill as the most desirable source of water. They felt the region was likely to remain wild land through most of its extent, and so free from contamination, and the height of pressure which it provided, being ample for fire purposes and for the running of motors. In time they found its storage capacity insufficient, and taste and smell did not please the customers, also they had trouble with the filters, and an accident to the single pipe which conveyed the water to Kingston, the entire service was shut down for some time. In the summer of 1893, Cooper Lake was found to be a better supply and was leased for a term of years.

In time it became evident that municipal ownership was necessary, and the State legislature passed a law, on May 27, 1895, which was signed by the Governor, entitled, "An act to provide for supplying the City of Kingston with pure and wholesome water." This statute provided for the appointment by the mayor of five water commissioners, and Samuel D. Coykendall was president of this commission. They could either construct a new system, taking water from the Esopus Creek at Bishop's Falls or by the Kingston Water Co. system. On March 1, 1896 the city bought the Kingston Water Co. system for $468,750. Bonds were issued by the city, improvements were made to the system, and the work completed September, 1900.

CLINTONDALE NEWS

CLINTONDALE—Members of Clintondale Fire Company are busy these nights at the recreation field behind the firehouse setting up booths and stalls in preparation for the annual bazaar to be held at the field Friday and Saturday nights, Aug. 14 and 15. There will be booths for the sale of hamburgers, hot dogs, sandwiches, soft drinks, ice cream and novelties and others for amusement. On the night of Aug. 15 soon after dark there will be a display of fireworks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorn, Main Street, celebrated their 46th wedding anniversary last week. Highland Grange honored them at the last meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wickham have a geranium plant in their yard that is bearing 48 flowers and buds.

The third annual barbecue and picnic of the Town of Plattekill Republican Club will be held at Klein Farm, Tuckers Corners Road Sunday, Aug. 16. The field will open at 1 p. m. and a chicken barbecue will be served at 3:30 p. m. There will be swimming, boating, softball and tables of games for all during the afternoon.

Several of the Republican candidates for county and state offices this fall are expected to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Selwyn Moshier are spending three weeks at a cottage at Lake George with their three children. Mr. Moshier is on vacation from his position with the Grand Union company.

Several of the congregation of the Clintondale Friends Meeting House attended the Nine Partners Quarterly Meeting held at Cornwall Friends church. It was an all day event with a basket lunch served at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eckert, Mrs. Florence Coy, Mrs. Elizabeth Atkins and Miss Irene Sickler spent Sunday at North Lake in the Catskills.

The Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Sutch have moved for Kingston to the Friends parsonage on Crescent Avenue. The Rev. Mr. Sutch is the new minister for the Friends church.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Conklin of Lexington, Ky., have been visiting friends and relatives. Mr. Conklin was raised in this town, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Grover Conklin.

Fred Eckert, Master of the Clintondale Grange conducted the meeting held last Monday night at the Grange Hall. Plans for taking part in the Ulster County Fair at Kingston were made. A carry-in supper preceded the meeting. There will be a penny social at the Grange Hall Saturday, Aug. 29. The next regular meeting will be held Monday, Aug. 17. Mr. Eckert and other officers attended the officers meeting at Ulster Park on Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Hector Avery have moved from their apartment to Ardona where they will make their home.

Harold Degee, Larry Capozzi, Charles DeFalso and David Hurd were on a deep sea fishing trip one day last week.

There will be a worship service at the Methodist Church at 9:45 Sunday morning with the Rev. Arthur Patridge delivering the sermon.

Supervisor Joseph Martorano will attend a meeting of the Ulster County board of Supervisors in Kingston Thursday night. The Plattekill Town Board will meet Wednesday night at the town rooms in Ardona.

Mrs. Rhoda Mackey has returned to her home on Main Street after visiting relatives in Ashland, N. C.

The Rev. Gerald Sutch will conduct a service at the Friends church at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. There will be no Sunday school until September.

Members of Clintondale fire department took part in the 29th annual convention of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association at Rosendale last week. They attended the banquet, business meeting and took part in the big parade Saturday.

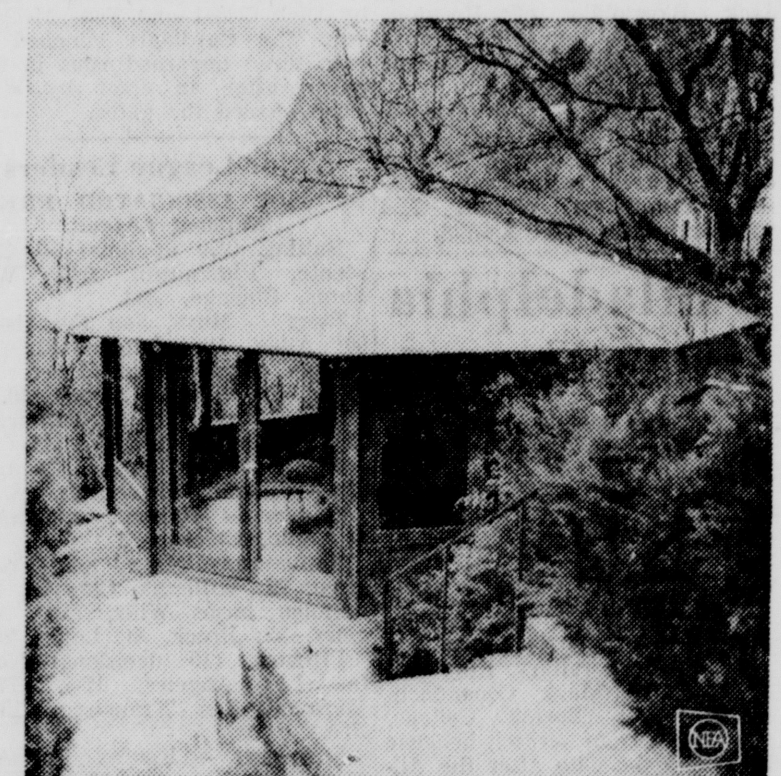

Mr. and Mrs. William Minard and children have returned from a vacation at Long Lake in the Adirondacks.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron D. Ronk, Crescent Avenue, have been entertaining Sergeant and Mrs. Theodore Martin and son of Oregon. When his leave is up he will report at Keesler Air Force Base in Mississippi. Mrs. Martin is the former Miss Eleanor Ronk of Clintondale.

Anna Stays on 'World'

LONDON (AP)—Anna Quayle isn't getting out of "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off."

Miss Quayle portrayed the main femme assignment when the musical first opened in London, went along for the Broadway production. Now she is back again with the show for an eight-week tour of South Africa.

ADENAUER'S HIDEAWAY—Former West Germany Chancellor Konrad Adenauer calls his little garden house "Retiro." Located on the grounds of his home at Rhondorf, the building is surrounded by trees and overlooks a valley.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

This formula is so effective that it is the physician's leading asthma prescription—so safe when used as directed that now it can be sold without prescription in most states —in tiny tablets called Primatene®. These Primatene Tablets open bronchial tubes, loosen congestion, relieve taut nervous tension. All without painful injections.

The secret is Primatene combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose.

So look forward to sleep at night, and freedom from asthma spasms. Get Primatene at any drugstore.

Waives Royalties

NEW YORK (AP)—A neighborhood group, Fair World Theater, is being allowed to perform "A View From the Bridge" without payment of usual royalties to author Arthur Miller. The playwright said he waived any payment because "the concept of getting people in the area engaged in cultural activity is a good one."

Which Sign's Right?

GLENS FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—A sign at one end of a city street reads "Catherine". One at the other end reads "Katherine". The Common Council looked into the matter but delayed action for a spell.

Shockey on Trial For Murder of 2 New York Campers

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A Superior Court judge summoned Herbert L. Shockey, 30, an ex-convict, to trial today on charges of slaying a vacationing New York couple.

Defense attorney Walter F. Kessler said over the weekend he believes the trial will last about two weeks.

At a preliminary hearing last month, Kessler argued that Shockey was incapable of assisting in his own defense and was not aware of the nature of the proceedings against him.

Superior Court Judge William A. Holohan heard testimony from psychiatrists and psychologists, then ruled that Shockey should stand trial.

Shockey is accused of shooting and stabbing John Bertella, 62, and his wife, Mildred, 64, of Sherrill, N.Y., near Apache Junction, Ariz., about 30 miles east of Phoenix.

Their bodies were found Feb. 2. Shockey and Theresa Robichaud, 18, of Fresno, Calif., were arrested in Nevada March 21 after being spotted in the Bertella camper-truck.

Maricopa County Sheriff L. C. (Cal) Boies said Shockey had admitted the slayings but did not implicate the girl.

The girl was charged with murder, but the charges were dismissed for lack of evidence. Sheriff Boies' deputies said Shockey apparently attempted to take his own life July 22 when he unscrewed a light bulb in his cell, broke it and used the pieces to slash himself. Physicians said the cuts were superficial.

Teen-Ager Killed In Thurway Crash

Richard Falconer, 17, of New York City, was killed about 5:15 p. m. Sunday on the Thurway near Selkirk in the Town of Coeymans, Albany County.

State Police said the youth was driving north in the passing lane when the small foreign car he was operating rolled over several times ejecting the operator from the vehicle. Falconer was pronounced dead at Albany Medical Center.

Troopers said Charles Barndt, 24, of Pottstown, Pa., owner and passenger in the vehicle, was issued a summons for permitting an unlicensed operator to drive his car.

To Serve You Better

I Must Temporarily Interrupt Your Electric Service

Time: AUGUST 11, 1964
Area: PHOENICIA

For the safety of workmen while work is being done, it's necessary to turn off electricity in the area listed below. This is a planned interruption and work will be completed as quickly as possible.

There will be an interruption to your electricity service Tuesday morning from 5:00 A. M. to 6:30 A. M. August 11, 1964.

Your electrical servant

Reddy Kilowatt

The area affected includes Route #28 from a point two miles west of Phoenicia to Mt. Tremper; Woodland Valley, Phoenicia, Chichester, Mt. Tremper and surrounding area.

In case of unfavorable weather, this work will be done during the same hours Wednesday, August 12, 1964.

In the summer of 1893, Cooper Lake was found to be a better supply and was leased for a term of years.

In time it became evident that municipal ownership was necessary, and the State legislature passed a law, on May 27, 1895, which was signed by the Governor, entitled "An act to provide for supplying the City of Kingston with pure and wholesome water." This statute provided for the appointment by the mayor of five water commissioners, and Samuel D. Coykendall was president of this commission. They could either construct a new system, taking water from the Esopus Creek at Bishop's Falls or by the Kingston Water Co. system. On March 1, 1896 the city bought the Kingston Water Co. system for $468,750. Bonds were issued by the city, improvements were made to the system, and the work completed September, 1900.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

This formula is so effective that it is the physician's leading asthma prescription—so safe when used as directed that now it can be sold without prescription in most states.

—in tiny tablets called Primatene®. These Primatene Tablets open bronchial tubes, loosen congestion, relieve taut nervous tension. All without painful injections.

The secret is—Primatene combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose.

So look forward to sleep at night, and freedom from asthma spasms. Get Primatene at any drugstore.

Waives Royalties

NEW YORK (AP)—A neighborhood group, Fair World Theater, is being allowed to perform "A View From the Bridge" without payment of usual royalties to author Arthur Miller.

The playwright said he waived any payment because "the concept of getting people in the area engaged in cultural activity is a good one."

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Chi Chi Rodriguez, the long-driving, 120-pound Puerto Rican, has an answer for everything.

After winning top prize of $11,000 in the Western Open, he cracked:

"When I was a kid fertilizing sugar cane, I never thought I would have this much in my whole life.

"I remember when I first started playing on the golf tour. I went around in Pete Cooper's car. When we stopped for gas, I would pretend I was asleep in the back seat. When the check came in a restaurant, I would sneak away to the men's room.

"Pete did a lot for me. He changed my grip and it changed my whole golf game.

"Also, I have tremendous respect for Ed Dudley. He hired me as assistant pro at Dorado Beach (in Puerto Rico). He gave me the down payment for a home and my first car. He was a great man.

Cooper is a veteran pro now in Sorrento, Fla. Dudley died last October.

Sixth on List

Chi Chi, who constantly jabs with his fans — of whom there were plenty among the 20,000 for a Western Open in Sunday's gallery — won with a closing 36-31 — 67 for a 72-hole total of 268.

He finished two holes ahead of Arnold Palmer, defending champion. They had started the last round in a dead heat for the lead at 201.

Palmer was one-stroke behind with three holes to go. On the 70th, he missed a 10-foot birdie putt that would have squared him.

On the 71st he was over the green on his approach. He went to the cup coming back, but the ball rolled 25 feet past. He wound up with a bogey. He couldn't recover from that even if he had an 18-foot birdie tap on the 72nd and finished with a 68 for 269.

Sharing third place at 275 were Jack Nicklaus and Don Massengale. Ken Venturi was next at 277. Grouped at 278 were Stan Leonard, Tony Lema, Tom Veech, Jim Ferrier and Billy Casper.

New Faces in Philadelphia As Eagles Seek Improvement

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles are all shook up. A series of deals by Joe Kuharich, the new head coach, swept out such old familiar faces as Sonny Jurgensen and Tommy McDonald and replaced them with Norm Snead, Earl Gros, Red Mack and a host of rookies.

Things are in a state of flux in the Eagles' training camp because everybody is new. There is a new owner, Jerry Wolman, new coaching staff, new system and new personnel. Most important, Kuharich hopes, is a new spirit.

"We know we have an uphill struggle," said the former Notre Dame coach. "We are behind everybody else but we hope to improve on last year's cellar record of 2-10-2. We have a young front line on offense with the exception of Jim Ringo and Pete Retzlaff. Basically we will be a blend of the old and the new."

"We just couldn't go along with the defense they had last year. The worst thing is to score 24 or 28 points and still get beat. Your defense should be able to hold the other team to between 21 and 24 points."

his old San Francisco U. Protege who was acquired from Detroit.

Norm Snead, the quarterback who came from Washington in the deal for Jurgensen, will have split ends. Ron Goodwin and Ray Poage, tight end and Retzlaff and flanker Red Mack, ex-Pittsburgh Steelers, as his prime targets. If Snead falters, King Hill is available. Jack Concannon, rookie from Boston College, must start from scratch because he joined the club after the All-Star game.

Kuharich counts on rookie Bob Brown of Nebraska, an unusually agile man for a 275-pounder, to handle an offensive tackle job, teaming with sophomore DeLoach Graham. Ringo in the middle and Ed Blaine and Pete Case at the guards runner out the front line. Kuharich also is high on guard Lynn Hoyem, former Dallas Cowboy.

Friendly Joe still is backing and filling on his defensive front four among Riley Gunnels, John Meyers (ex - Dallas), Floyd Peters (ex - Detroit) and George Tarasovic.

The linbacking crew probably will include Ralph Heck, Dave Lloyd and Maxie Baughan. Glenn Glass (ex-Pittsburgh) and Irv Cross at the corners and Nate Ramsey and Don Burroughs at safety are the likely deep backs but there will be changes all season.

Sam Baker, veteran acquired from Dallas in the McDonald deal, will do the punting and placekicking.

Mays Paces Giants Over Reds; Yanks, Birds Split Twinbill

His Four Hits
Key in 7-5 Win;
Phils Rout Mets

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
Willie Mays personally lifted the San Francisco Giants to two weekend victories, tripling home the only run in Saturday's 1-0 victory over Cincinnati, then collecting four hits for the first time this season as the Giants whipped the Reds 7-5 Sunday.

Not since May when he was hitting above the .400 mark has the $100,000-a-year outfielder put on such an outstanding one-man show as he did Sunday. He slammed his 32nd homer, a double and two singles, drove in three runs, scored two and stole two bases.

Mays, bothered by a heavy cold, was not scheduled to play against the Mets at New York last Wednesday. But with Manager Al Dark under fire and his job threatened, Mays asked to be inserted in the lineup.

"I shouldn't be playing," he said, "but I've got to help that man."

That was the last he said on the subject.

Since then, in four games, he's hit three homers, driven in six runs and collected eight hits in 17 at-bats.

Mays' latest efforts kept the Giants 2½ games behind the National League leading Philadelphia Phillies, who whipped New York 6-0 behind Jim Bunning's five-hit pitching and a two-run homer by former Met Frank Thomas.

In other games, Jim Pagliaroni's two-run homer gave Pittsburgh a 2-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs, Dennis Lemaster pitched a four-hitter as Milwaukee defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-2 and Ray Saadecki posted his 13th victory in St. Louis' 8-2 triumph over Houston.

Despite Mays' one-man show, the Giants still needed some brilliant relief work by Billy O'Dell, who came on in the fourth and allowed only two hits over the final 5 1-3 innings.

Things also broke right for the Phillies as Thomas, acquired Friday from the Mets, hit a two-run homer in the fourth and rookie Alex Johnson, recalled when Danny Cater was injured, hit his first homer in the eighth, a two-run, pinch-hit shot.

That was more than enough for Bunning, who brought his record to 12-4 with another strong effort. Bunning did not allow a hit until Joe Christopher beat out a bunt with two out in the fifth. He had retired 45 Mets in succession until 4th inning.

He hit his June 21 perfect game.

Buhl Loses 9th
Pagliaroni's homer and the combined four-hit pitching of Don Schwall and Al McBean got the job done for the Pirates.

Allen allowed only three hits before leaving in the ninth. Pagliaroni's homer, tagged Bob Buhl, 12-9, with the loss.

Milwaukee's Lemaster, 12-7, breezed after the Braves jumped on Don Drysdale, 13-11, for four runs in the fourth inning. The key hit was a two-run double by Joe Torre, who later scored on an error by Nate Olver. Lemaster ended Tommy Davis' hitting streak at 20 games.

BATTING Willie Mays, Giants, slammed his 32nd homer, a double and two singles, drove in three runs, scored two and stole two bases, leading San Francisco to a 7-5 victory over Cincinnati.

PITCHING — Al Downing, Yankees, gave New York only victory in four-game series with Baltimore, winning opener of doubleheader 2-1 with four-hitter, striking out nine and walking only one. Orioles won nightcap 4-2.

Twins Get Even
Cleveland's Sonny Siebert and two firemen shut out Minnesota in the opener and Dick Howser hit a three-run homer. All seven Indians' runs were unearned, the result of four Minnesota errors. Jim Kaat pitched a four-hitter for the Twins in the nightcap and Frank Kostro drove in all the runs with a single and two-run homer.

The Angels' Dean Chance, bidding for his eighth straight victory, blew a 5-1 lead in the ninth. Reliever Bob Lee yielded the last three of six Washington hits in the inning and took the loss. Pinch runner Claude Osteen scored the winning run from third on a fly out when Bob Rodgers dropped Lou Clinton's perfect throw to the plate.

Owls nipped the Crows, 7-6, and the Eagles walloped the Hawks, 16-4, in Jaycee Little League games.

Harold Anderson of the Crows and Paul Backleman of the Owls hit homers. Jesse Caprotti and Steve Provenzano had doubles. Backleman was the winner and Caprotti took the setback. Backleman had three hits for the Owls and Tom Kuriger rapped a pair of singles for the losers.

The Eagles had a seven run surge in the second inning and six in the fourth to overwhelm the Hawks. Bob Mitchell and Scott Findholt had doubles—the only extra base hits of the game.

A "FISH-FINDER" RIG LETS A FISH TAKE BAIT AND SWIM AWAY WITHOUT FEELING THE SINKER'S WEIGHT TO ALARM HIM. SWIVEL PREVENTS SINKER'S SLIDING DOWN TO HOOK DURING CAST. Staten Island Legion Champs

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) —Hutner-Pasqualini Post 1367 of Staten Island owns the 1964 State American Legion baseball championship by virtue of booming bats that echoed often across this historic baseball mecca.

The Staten Island team rapped out 18 hits to defeat Adam Plewacki Post 799 of Buffalo Saturday in the finals of the Legion tournament at Abner Doubleday Field.

The biggest offensive noises came from the bat of Larry Miraldi who made three hits, including a grand slam home run. Miraldi, celebrating his 18th birthday, accounted for five runs batted in and stole two bases. Terry Crowley and Mickey Burns also homered.

Staten Island 18-10; Buffalo 9-0.

49ers, Rams Surprise Exhibition Winners

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The San Francisco 49ers, the Los Angeles Rams and the Kansas City Chiefs, the have-not teams of 1963, may become the haves of 1964 in professional football.

That appears to be one of the first conclusions that could be drawn from the opening of the exhibition season that drew 282,441 fans to 10 games, seven Saturday night and three Sunday afternoon. The six National League games drew 219,116 and the four American League games 63,325.

The 49ers, who had their worst season in 1963, scored an easy 26-7 victory over the Cleveland Browns before 27,404 Sunday at San Francisco. Quarterback John Brodie, injured most of last season, completed 15 of 25 passes for 188 yards and one touchdown.

Gabriel Stars
Roman Gabriel, who is expected to lead the Rams back to title contention in the NFL, sparked the Rams to a 17-6 triumph over the Dallas Cowboys before 57,450 at Los Angeles. He completed 16 of 26 passes for 159 and set up both Ram touchdowns.

Kansas City, the 1963 flop of the year in the AFL after winning the championship in 1962, whipped the Oakland Raiders 21-14 before 11,118 at Oakland. The passing of Len Dawson and Eddie Wilson sparked the Chiefs to an early lead and their strong defense thwarted a late Oakland threat.

The largest crowd, an estimated 65,000, turned out at New Orleans where the St. Louis Cardinals upset the Green Bay Packers 20-7. Star back Paul Hornung, back in action after a year's suspension for betting on games, carried the ball only five times for Green Bay. He gained a total of 29 yards, his best effort a 16-yard run.

The Minnesota Vikings whipped the New York Giants 21-7 before 31,581 at Minneapolis and the Detroit Lions nipped the Washington Redskins 28-7 before 18,781 at Charlotte.

In other games the Baltimore Colts whipped the Philadelphia Eagles 28-17 before 18,500 at Hershey, Pa.; the San Diego Chargers downed the Denver Broncos 34-20 before 26,293 at San Diego; the Houston Oilers walloped the Boston Patriots 28-7 before 20,087 at Newton, Mass., and the Buffalo Bills clouted the New York Jets 26-13 before 5,827 at Tampa, Fla.

New Faces in Philadelphia As Eagles Seek Improvement

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles are all shook up. A series of deals by Joe Kuharich, the new head coach, swept out such old familiar faces as Sonny Jurgensen and Tommy McDonald and replaced them with Norm Snead, Earl Gros, Red Mack and a host of rookies.

Things are in a state of flux in the Eagles' training camp because everybody is new. There is a coaching staff, new system and new personnel. Most important, Kuharich hopes, is a new spirit.

"We know we have an uphill struggle," said the former Notre Dame coach. "We are behind everybody else but we hope to improve on last year's cellar record of 2-10-2. We have a young front line on offense with the exception of Jim Ringo and Pete Retzlaff. Basically we will be a blend of the old and the new."

"We just couldn't go along with the defense they had last year. The worst thing is to score 24 or 28 points and still get beat. Your defense should be able to hold the other team to between 21 and 24 points."

The addition of Gros, a fine fullback from Green Bay, plus the speed and drive of Tim Brown, the holdover halfback, gives the Eagles a more powerful running game. Kuharich expects help from Ollie Mason,

Rodriguez Defeats Palmer

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Chi Chi Rodriguez, the long-driving, 120-pound Puerto Rican, has an answer for everything.

After winning top prize of $11,000 in the Western Open, he cracked:

"When I was a kid fertilizing sugar cane, I never thought I would have this much in my whole life."

"I remember when I first started playing on the golf tour. I went around in Pete Cooper's car. When we stopped for gas, I would pretend I was asleep in the back seat. When the check came in a restaurant, I would sneak away to the men's room."

"Pete did a lot for me. He changed my grip and it changed my whole golf game."

"Also, I have tremendous respect for Ed Dudley. He hired me as assistant pro at Dorado Beach (in Puerto Rico). He gave me the down payment for a home and my first car. He was a great man."

Cooper is a veteran pro now in Sorrento, Fla. Dudley died last October.

Sixth on List
Chi Chi, a 28-year-old bachelor who once wanted to make a career as a baseball pitcher, now is head pro at Dorado Beach. His winnings from the Western Open boosted him from ninth to sixth on the PGA earning list with $46,610.

Chi Chi, who constantly jabs with his fans — of whom there were plenty among the record 20,600 for a Western Open in Sunday's gallery — won with a closing 36-31 for a 72-hole total of 268.

He finished two holes ahead of Arnold Palmer, defending champion. They had started the last round in a dead heat for the lead at 201.

Palmer was one-stroke behind with three holes to go. On the 70th, he missed a 10-foot birdie putt that would have squared him.

On the 71st he was over the green on his approach. He went to the cup coming back, but the ball rolled 25 feet past. He wound up with a bogey. He couldn't recover from that even with an 18-foot birdie tap on the 72nd and finished with a 68 for 269.

Sharing third place at 275 were Jack Nicklaus and Don Massengale. Ken Venturi was next at 277. Grouped at 278 were Stan Leonard, Tony Lema, Tom Veech, Jim Ferrier and Billy Casper.

Wins Pin Tourney
MONTREAL (AP) — Bill Allen of Orlando, Fla., staved off a determined last-gasp effort by Jack Biondillo of Houston, Tex., and won the $24,000 Canadian Open Bowling Tournament by four pins Sunday night.

Allen's 16-game total of 8,838 brought him $3,000 and made him the leading money winner of this year's Professional Bowlers' Association circuit. His winnings now total $24,728.

His old San Francisco U. Protege who was acquired from Detroit.

Norm Snead, the quarterback who came from Washington in the deal for Jurgensen, will have split ends Ron Goodwin and Ray Poage, tight end and Retzlaff and flanker Red Mack, ex-Pittsburgh Steelers, as his prime targets. If Snead falters, King Hill is available. Jack Coneannon, rookie from Boston College, must start from scratch because he joined the club after the All-Star game.

Kuharich counts on rookie Bob Brown of Nebraska, an unusually agile man for a 275-pounder, to have an offensive tackle job, teaming with sophomore Dave Graham. Ringo in the middle and Ed Blaine and Pete Case at the guards round out the front line. Kuharich also is high on guard Lynn Hoyem, former Dallas Cowboy.

Friendly Joe still is backing and filling on his defensive front four among Riley Gunnels, John Meyers (ex - Dallas), Floyd Peters (ex - Detroit) and George Tarasovic.

The linebacking crew probably will include Ralph Heck, Dave Lloyd and Maxie Baughan. Glenn Glass (ex-Pittsburgh) and Irv Cross at the corners and Nate Ramsey and Don Burroughs at safety are the likely deep backs but there will be changes all season.

Sam Baker, veteran acquired from Dallas in the McDonald deal, will do the punting and placekicking.

Mays Paces Giants Over Reds; Yanks, Birds Split Twinbill

His Four Hits Key in 7-5 Win; Phils Rout Mets

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays personally lifted the San Francisco Giants to two weekend victories, tripling home the only run in Saturday's 1-0 victory over Cincinnati, then collecting four hits for the first time this season as the Giants whipped the Reds 7-5 Sunday.

Not since May when he was hitting above the .400 mark has the $100,000-a-year outfielder put on such an outstanding one-man show as he did Sunday. He slammed his 32nd homer, a double and two singles, drove in three runs, scored two and stole two bases.

Mays, bothered by a heavy cold, was not scheduled to play against the Mets at New York last Wednesday. But with Manager Al Dark under fire and his job threatened, Mays asked to be inserted in the lineup.

"I shouldn't be playing," he said, "but I've got to help that man."

That was the last he said on the subject.

Since then, in four games, he's hit three homers, driven in six runs and collected eight hits in 17 at-bats.

Mays' latest efforts kept the Giants 2½ games behind the National League leading Philadelphia Phillies, who whipped New York 6-0 behind Jim Bunning's five-hit pitching and a two-run homer by former Met Frank Thomas.

In other games, Jim Pagniaroni's two-run homer gave Pittsburgh a 2-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Denny Lemaster pitched a four-hitter as Milwaukee defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-2 and Ray Sadock posted his 13th victory in St. Louis' 8-2 triumph over Houston.

Despite Mays' one-man show, the Giants still needed some brilliant relief work by Billy O'Dell, who came on in the fourth and allowed only two hits over the final 5-1-3 innings, striking out the last four men he faced.

Things also broke right for the Phillies as Thomas, acquired Friday from the Mets, hit a two-run homer in the fourth and rookie Alex Johnson, recalled when Danny Cater was injured, hit his first homer in the eighth.

That was more than enough for Bunning, who brought his record to 12-4 with another strong effort. Bunning did not allow a hit until Joe Christopher beat out a bunt with two out in the fifth. He had retired 45 Mets in succession until then, including 27 in his June 21 perfect game.

Buhl Loses 9th
Pagniaroni's homer and the combined four-hit pitching of Don Schwall and Al McBean got the job done for the Pirates.

Schwall allowed only three hits before leaving in the ninth. Pagniaroni's homer, tagged Bob Buhl, 12-9, with the loss.

Milwaukee's Lemaster, 12-7, breezed after the Braves jumped on Don Drysdale, 13-11, for four runs in the fourth inning. The key hit was a two-run double by Joe Torre, who later scored on an error by Nate Oliver. Lemaster ended Tommy Davis' hitting streak at 20 games.

Sadock checked the Colts on seven hits while the Cardinals lashed 15, including three each by Dick Groat and Tom McCarver. The Cardinals clinched it with three unearned runs in the fourth after an error by Walt Bond opened the gates.

Monticello Raceway Twin Double Pays Record $52,322

Unknown Bettor Wins Entire Pool Saturday Night

MONTICELLO—An unidentified person will collect a record breaking $52,322 Twin Double at Monticello Raceway.

MacDonald's horse, Nacey II, apparently stumbled just before the quarter pole.

Nevele Surprise (Bill Popfinger) and Collier Hanover (Lucien Fontaine) collided with the front horse and the drivers were thrown from the sulkies.

Nacey II is reported to have an injured leg and the other horses were reported okay by track veterinarians.

Army Hanover, which was outside at the time of the collision, moved to the front and posted a near wire-to-wire triumph, setting up the huge Twin Double.

Horses taking part in the record breaking Twin Double were Barton Hanover ($38.60) in the fifth, Spangler Goose ($8.60) in the sixth, Swift Water ($26.10) in the seventh and Army Hanover ($38.60) in the eighth.

The previous mark at Monticello was set on August 13 of last year when a Newburgh restaurant owner collected $45,204.

2. CLEVER NEWPORT won last easily. Can come right back, if on stride. NEVELE GOURMET is in shape and can reverse. SAM SANDERS moves up in class after two straight wins.

3. FOUND FREIGHT moves inside and will be tough. UNCLE ARLING in a new stable. HARDY'S BRIDGET is fast but erratic.

4. DISCRETION can still beat horses in this class. EDDIE DUKE might try to go wire to wire. MURRIGAN has been a disappointment. Might wake up.

5. BOB CANADA was interfering with in last. SUMTER REBEL never got off the rail and had no room to move. A stretch threat. ROAN FLYER has the pole and shows lots of early speed.

6. KING CHRISTIAN has been knocking at the door. Maybe here. ETTA LAIRD hasn't come close to last year's form. Could finally wake up. PRINCE YONDER has been improving.

7. KNIGHT PRINCE is the best bet of the night. TRADER VIC shows two straight but is moving up. BACHE ROSE-CROFT always tough against this kind of company.

8. DUNDEEN hasn't been getting the breaks. EDGEWOOD HEATHER a good longshot bet. Is always near the top from inside. IVY CASTLE and driver both in a slump.

9. CHANTEZ made a gallant effort at 18-1. SUCCESS SID is always bet way down but very seldom wins. TANKER T. just missed in last outing.

SET FOR MAT SHOW—The Arabians, one of the most popular tag teams in wrestling, will oppose Pete Sanchez and The Texan in a tag team match on Tuesday's mat show, scheduled for Dietz Stadium.

Card Completed For Mat Show Tuesday

Five outstanding bouts, including a fight to the finish between Antonino Rocca and the Rebel, will highlight Tuesday's outdoor wrestling show at Dietz Stadium. The action will begin at 8:30 and there promises to be plenty of it.

In the tag team match, two-of-three falls, the Arabians will oppose Pete Sanchez and the Texan.

The famous midgets will be in action with Chiribibi facing Ali Toshie. In a pair of one fall or 30 minute bouts, Ivan Melnikoff grapples with Bob Thomas and El Tori faces Shaba.

Tickets are on sale at Tommy Maines' Sporting Goods and will be sold at the Stadium the night of the show.

Pocomoonshine Upset In Sire Stakes Race

MONTICELLO — Maynard Abbe, figured as just another "also ran" to heavily favored Pocomoonshine, scored one of the biggest upsets of the season Saturday night at Monticello Raceway by racing to a 2:04.4 victory in the New York Sire Stakes four-year-old pacing championship.

So superior was Pocomoonshine, at least off recent performances that track management invoked a little used rule—to prohibit betting on Pocomoonshine but have wagering on the other seven horses in the race.

Lucien Fontaine made the decision look good as he steered Pocomoonshine to a 29.2 quarter and a 1:02.4 half. At the end of a 1:34.3 third period, the Singing Sword stallion was still on top.

Frank Popfinger, trailing in second place with Maynard Abbe, pulled his horse outside past the last turn and passed the tiring Pocomoonshine a short distance.

Anderson Wins Feature Race at Oteora Speedway

Jose Olivares Wins Three at Finger Lakes

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP)—Jose Olivares rode three winners Saturday at Finger Lakes Race Track, including Glamour Role in the $1,800 feature. Glamour Role, owned by J.D. McKinnon of Elmira, covered the six furlongs in 1:13.35 to win by six lengths and pay $4.40. Noble Charger was second and Camauero, third.

A crowd of 7,888 wagered $426,126.

Chinese Draft Hiked
HONG KONG (AP)—Communist China started pressing huge numbers of youths, factory workers and government officials into military service three weeks before the Gulf of Tonkin crisis, according to delayed official reports.

The reports said more than half a million people had been called up.

WANTED! MEN-WOMEN

from ages 18 to 52. Prepare now for U. S. Civil Service job openings in this area for the next 12 months. Government positions pay as high as $446.00 a month to start. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience. But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Don't delay—ACT NOW.

The Belle Acton Pace opens

the week's harness-racing action tonight in New York State,

the American Trotting Championship winds it up Saturday night, and, in between, only

Tuesday and Thursday fail to provide top stake features.

The $24,479 Belle Acton for 2-

year-old fillies at Roosevelt

between Stanley Dancer's Beloved Hanover and Del Insko's

Balzanano, winners of last week's eliminations.

Beloved Hanover has won 10

of her 12 races, Balzanano, 5 of

8. Also highly regarded is Colleen Hanover, who finished a close second to Beloved in one elimination.

The 1¼-mile, $50,000 American Trotting Championship, also

at Roosevelt, pits Speedy Scot

against seven other invited

speedsters, including Duke Rodney and Su Mac Lad.

Roosevelt and Monticello also provided the most action last

Saturday night.

At Roosevelt, Race Time led

all the way to win the $150,960

Messenger Stakes by a neck;

over Bengazi Hanover. A nose

back, in third, was Lyss Hanover. The time was 2:01.2-5.

Monticello recorded its highest twin double — $52,322 — and had a favorite in the feature

race that nobody could bet on.

double ticket on the winning combination of 6, 6, 5, 7.

In other feature races Satur-

Vernon Downs — Argo Kid

of the August Trotting series in 2:04.1-5.

Saratoga Raceway—Precious

Scot ($3,400) won the $5,000 Art

Hinrichs Memorial Pace in 2:03

Batavia Downs — Washington

Star ($16,100) won the $3,500

feature pace in 2:05.2-5.

Monticello Raceway Twin Double Pays Record $52,322

Unknown Bettor Wins Entire Pool Saturday Night

MONTICELLO—An unidentified person will collect a record breaking $52,322 Twin Double at Monticello Raceway.

The new mark came about after a three-horse collision Saturday in the eighth race, which sent driver Gregg MacDonald to Monticello Hospital with head injuries.

MacDonald's horse, Nelly II, apparently stumbled just before the quarter pole.

Nevele Surprise (Bill Popfinger) and Collier Hanover (Lucien Fontaine) collided with the front horse and the drivers were thrown from the sulks.

Nelly II is reported to have an injured leg and the other horses were reported okay by track veterinarians.

Army Hanover, which was outside at the time of the collision, moved to the front and posted a near wire-to-wire triumph, setting up the huge Twin Double.

Though MacDonald was the only driver taken to the hospital, Fontaine was advised not to ride his horse in the ninth race.

Horses taking part in the record breaking Twin Double were Barton Hanover ($38.60) in the fifth, Spangler Goose ($8.60) in the sixth, Swift Water ($26.10) in the seventh and Army Hanover ($38.60) in the eighth.

The previous mark at Monticello was set on August 13 of last year when a Newburgh restaurant owner collected $45,204.

Anderson Wins Feature Race at Ontario Speedway

Avery, Searing, Temple and Kauffman, Wetmore, Anderson, Patterson and Gardner were in that order in the second heat.

Following the top two in the feature were Mel Hulbert, Fred Searing and Clayton Barringer. In the sedan doubles, Ron Santosky was the winner.

Entry blanks are available for the biggest demolition scramble of all time, slated Sunday, Sept. 6 with $1,000 as the payoff. Racing continues each Saturday at the track.

Ray Anderson was pressed for the entire distance by Stan Wetmore but still managed to win another feature race Saturday night at Ontario Speedway. The winner copped the race by less than a car length.

Squeamish on Rockets

TOKYO (AP) — Japan asked the Soviet Union today for notice whenever it plans to launch rockets into the Pacific, the Foreign Ministry announced.

The Soviet Union announced July 31 that it will conduct a series of rocket tests in the Pacific from Aug. 4 through Dec. 30. Japan said in its note that it reserves all rights for compensation for damages or losses incurred by Japanese nationals as a result of the Soviet experiments.

The reports said more than half a million people had been called up.

Race Time Wins 150Gs Messenger

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Belle Acton Pace opens

the week's harness-racing action tonight in New York State,

the American Trotting Cham-

ampionship winds it up Saturday night, and, in between, only

Tuesday and Thursday fail to provide top stake features.

The $24,479 Belle Acton for 2-

year-old fillies at Roosevelt

between Stanley Dancer's Beloved Hanover and Del Insko's

Balenzano, winners of last week's eliminations.

Beloved Hanover has won 10

of her 12 races, Balenzano, 5 of

8. Also highly regarded is Colleen Hanover, who finished a close second to Beloved in one elimination.

The 1¼-mile, $50,000 American Trotting Championship, also

at Roosevelt, pits Speedy Scot

against seven other invited

ney and Su Mac Lad.

Roosevelt and Monticello also provided the most action last

Saturday night.

At Roosevelt, Race Time led

all the way to win the $150,960

Messenger Stakes by a neck;

over Bengazi Hanover. A nose

back, in third, was Lyss Hanover. The time was 2:01.25.

Monticello recorded its highest twin double — $52,322 — and had a favorite in the feature

race that nobody could bet on.

Only one person held a twin-

double ticket on the winning

combination of 6, 6, 5, 7.

In other feature races Saturday night:

Vernon Downs — Argo Kid

($4.60) won the first $5,000 leg

of the August Trotting series in

Saratoga Raceway—Precious

Scot ($3.40) won the $5,000 Art

Hinrichs Memorial Pace in 2:03

45.

Batavia Downs — Washington

Star ($16.10) won the $3,500 feature pace in 2:05.25.

The U.S. military cemetery at Manila contains about 152 acres,

Poughkeepsie's Dave Bonner won his second consecutive Mid-Hudson Valley Tennis tournament championship with straight sets, 6-0, 6-4, 6-3, triumph over Dick Strain of Poughkeepsie in Sunday's finals at the State University of New Paltz courts.

Bonner teamed with Art Jones to beat Daniels and Strain, 6-0, 6-1, 6-1, in the finals of the men's doubles.

Miss Sherry Daniels, of Poughkeepsie won the women's singles with 6-3, 6-3, wins over Mrs. Ruth Lanier, Jackson Heights.

CONFERS WITH CANDIDATES—Congressman J. Ernest Wharton confers with presidential candidate, Senator Barry Goldwater and vice presidential candidate, Congressman William Miller of New York. Both political parties held conventions at the capital this week in preparation for the fall campaign. In a statement to The Freeman, the congressman said that he was highly elated over the closing of ranks behind Republican candidates and predicted victory for the ticket.

Railroads, Sir Unions Consider Job Protection

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's railroads and six shop craft unions took under consideration today a recommendation by a presidential emergency agency board for a job protection agreement.

They have 30 days to negotiate a settlement on the basis of the recommendations. If they fail to agree by then, the railroads will be free to alter working conditions and the unions will be free to strike.

Board recommendations covered job losses, dislocations and demotions resulting from automation. The board submitted its report to President Johnson Sunday at his Johnson City, Tex., ranch, where he was spending the weekend. It was comprised of Jean McKelvey, professor of industrial relations at Cornell University and the first woman ever to serve on an emergency board under the Railway Labor Act; Saul Walen of Boston, a professional arbitrator; and Arthur Ross, professor of economics at the University of California.

Teacher Injured In Rt. 209 Crash Is 'Improving'

Injured in a two-car collision on Route 209, Town of Wawarsing, Sunday, Aug. 2, George Strba, 50, a health teacher at Poughkeepsie High School, was reported improving Saturday at Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville.

State Police said Strba was a passenger in a car operated by Ralph Wilson, 56, of 236 Wilbur Boulevard, Town of Poughkeepsie, which was involved in a crash with a vehicle driven by Jaroslaw Pochmursky, 44, Elmhurst, L. I.

Wilson, an IBM employee, was in fair condition at the Ellenville Hospital, it was reported. Strba resides at 28 Vernon Terrace, Poughkeepsie. He is a former junior varsity basketball coach at PHS, and is incumbent varsity tennis coach at that school, and basketball coach at Forbus Junior High School.

Strba also is director of the Jewish Community Center's summer day camp, Camp Jekoe.

3 Hurt, Driver Is Cited in Collision

A two-car headon collision on Crescent Avenue, Clintondale, Saturday night injured three persons and resulted in a traffic charge filed against one driver.

Highland State Police said the cars were operated by Constantine Barnes, 33, of South Street, Highland, and Fred M. Smith, 71, Clintondale. Barnes was ticketed by Trooper Roberts on a charge of failing to keep right.

The summons is returnable Friday before Justice of the Peace James Palen, Town of Plattekill.

Injured in the mishap were Smith, who complained of arm injuries; his wife, Alida, who received lacerations of the head, and Barnes, who also sustained head lacerations.

Smith and his wife were treated at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

P. JOSEPH BEICHERT
Port Ewen Man Named Again to Boys' State Board

Ulster County American Legion Commander John Ashton Jr., of New Paltz announced today that P. Joseph Beichert, Town of Esopus Post, 1298, Port Ewen, was reelected for a fourth term of three years as a member of the Board of Directors of Empire Boys State.

He will represent the Third American Legion District, consisting of Ulster, Albany, Rensselaer, Schoharie, Columbia and Greene Counties. The election took place at the New York State American Legion convention held at Syracuse last week.

Beichert is a 45-year member of the Legion, having been a charter member of both Kingston and Town of Esopus Posts. He was the first commander of Town of Esopus Post and has been Ulster County Boys' State Chairman for the past 19 years.

At the recent meeting of the Board of Directors of Boys' State at Colgate University, Hamilton, five members of the board, including Beichert, were presented with Certificates of Appreciation for active participation in the Boys' State program by J. Arthur Petty, Department of New York Commander.

Communists Are Blamed for Kennedy Slaying

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities says the propaganda and agitation campaigns of the Communist party were responsible for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

However, the committee said it takes no position on the question of "whether the assassination of President Kennedy was an individual act or the work of conspiracy."

A presidential commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren is expected to conclude next month that accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was a loner who acted out of his own aberrations when he fired the bullets that killed Kennedy last Nov. 22 in Dallas.

The House committee discussed Kennedy's murder in its annual report issued Sunday. It recommended that Congress pass a law making assassination of the president or vice president a federal crime.

Slate Fireworks In Poughkeepsie Tuesday Evening

Poughkeepsie's annual fireworks display is scheduled to be touched off starting about 9 p.m. Tuesday at College Hill Park.

Fred W. Stitzel, president of the city's recreation commission, said the fireworks will feature aerial pieces and 12 set pieces. The display is expected to last from 40 to 50 minutes.

The annual fireworks show in Poughkeepsie usually attracts scores of Ulster County residents to the riverfront where most of the aerial displays will be visible. A band concert will be a feature of the event, with music provided by Local 238 of the American Federation of Musicians.

Blast, Fire Destroy 80-Year-Old Hotel

GOWANDA, N.Y. (AP)—The 80-year-old Gowanda Hotel in the heart of this Cattaraugus County community was destroyed Saturday by an explosion and fire. Spreading flames heavily damaged an adjoining radio-television store.

Three volunteer firemen suffered minor injuries. Damage to the two buildings was estimated by firemen at $63,000.

Two Are Injured In Head-On Crash

Two persons were injured in a two-car collision about 9:30 Sunday night in the Village of Tannersville, Greene County.

State Police at Leeds Substation said Juris G. Miemis, 18, of South Grand Avenue, Baldwin, N. Y., was driving on County Rd. 16 at the crest of a grade and entered the center of the roadway where it collided with a car driven by Ira Schamoy, 23, of Bridgeport, Conn., which had swerved to the right to avoid a collision.

Schamoy suffered a sprained left ankle. Stanley Schamoy, 18, a passenger in his car, suffered cuts to the right side of the forehead.

CONFERS WITH CANDIDATES—Congressman J. Ernest Wharton confers with presidential candidate, Senator Barry Goldwater and vice presidential candidate, Congressman William Miller of New York. Both political parties held conventions at the capital this week in preparation for the fall campaign. In a statement to The Freeman, the congressman said that he was highly elated over the closing of ranks behind Republican candidates and predicted victory for the ticket.

Railroads, Sir Unions Consider Job Protection

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's railroads and six shop craft unions took under consideration today a recommendation by a presidential emergency board for a job protection agreement.

They have 30 days to negotiate a settlement on the basis of the recommendations. If they fail to agree by then, the railroads will be free to alter working conditions and the unions will be free to strike.

Board recommendations covered job losses, dislocations and demotions resulting from automation.

The board submitted its report to President Johnson Sunday at his Johnson City, Tex., ranch, where he was spending the weekend. It was comprised of Jean McKelvey, professor of industrial relations at Cornell University and the first woman ever to serve on an emergency board under the Railway Labor Act; Saul Walen of Boston, a professional arbitrator; and Arthur Ross, professor of economics at the University of California.

Teacher Injured In Rt. 209 Crash Is 'Improving'

Injured in a two-car collision on Route 209, Town of Wawarsing, Sunday, Aug. 2, George Strba, 50, a health teacher at Poughkeepsie High School, was reported improving Saturday at Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville.

State Police said Strba was a passenger in a car operated by Ralph Wilson, 56, of 236 Wilbur Boulevard, Town of Poughkeepsie, which was involved in a crash with a vehicle driven by Jaroslav Pochmursky, 44, Elmhurst, L. I.

Wilson, an IBM employee, was in fair condition at the Ellenville Hospital, it was reported. Strba resides at 28 Vernon Terrace, Poughkeepsie. He is a former junior varsity basketball coach at PHS, and is incumbent varsity tennis coach at that school, and basketball coach at Forbus Junior High School.

Strba also is director of the Jewish Community Center's summer day camp, Camp Jekoe.

3 Hurt, Driver Is Cited in Collision

A two-car headon collision on Crescent Avenue, Clintondale, Saturday night injured three persons and resulted in a traffic charge filed against one driver.

Highland State Police said the cars were operated by Constantine Barnes, 33, of South Street, Highland, and Fred M. Smith, 71, Clintondale. Barnes was ticketed by Trooper Roberts on a charge of failing to keep right.

The summons is returnable Friday before Justice of the Peace James Palen, Town of Plattekill.

Injured in the mishap were Smith, who complained of arm injuries; his wife, Alida, who received lacerations of the head, and Barnes, who also sustained head lacerations.

Smith and his wife were treated at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

Slate Fireworks In Poughkeepsie Tuesday Evening

Poughkeepsie's annual fireworks display is scheduled to be touched off starting about 9 p. m. Tuesday at College Hill Park.

Fred W. Stitzel, president of the city's recreation commission, said the fireworks will feature aerial pieces and 12 set pieces.

The display is expected to last from 40 to 50 minutes.

The annual fireworks show in Poughkeepsie usually attracts scores of Ulster County residents to the riverfront where most of the aerial displays will be visible.

A band concert will be a feature of the event, with music provided by Local 238 of the American Federation of Musicians.

Blast, Fire Destroy 80-Year-Old Hotel

GOWANDA, N.Y. (AP)—The 80-year-old Gowanda Hotel in the heart of this Cattaraugus County community was destroyed Saturday by an explosion and fire. Spreading flames heavily damaged an adjoining radio-television store.

Three volunteer firemen suffered minor injuries.

Two Are Injured In Head-On Crash

Two persons were injured in a two-car collision about 9:30 Sunday night in the Village of Tannersville, Greene County.

State Police at Leeds substation said Juris G. Miemis, 18, of South Grand Avenue, Baldwin, N. Y., was driving on County Rd. 16 at the crest of a grade and entered the center of the roadway where it collided with a car driven by Ira Schamoy, 23, of Bridgeport, Conn., which had swerved to the right to avoid a collision.

Schamoy suffered a sprained left ankle. Stanley Schamoy, 18, a passenger in his car, suffered cuts to the right side of the forehead.
